

Uganda president won't spare Briton's life

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Ugandan President Idi Amin apparently turned his back Friday on an appeal by Britain's Queen Elizabeth II to spare the life of a retired British lecturer who called Amin a "village tyrant."

Radio Uganda quoted Amin as saying the only person who could save Denis Cecil Hills is British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan. Callaghan so far has refused to negotiate with Amin "under duress."

"The presence in Uganda of Mr.

Callaghan is absolutely necessary before Monday if the life of Mr. Hills is to be spared," Radio Uganda quoted Amin as saying. "If he comes before then we will discuss the political side of the matter."

The Ugandan leader said that Hills, a 61-year-old retired British lecturer convicted of treason, would be shot at 11 a.m. local time Monday — 5 a.m. EDT.

He said the execution would be carried out on the spot where British forces killed 27 Moslem soldiers of the former Uganda Rifles. He was understood to be referring to the execution in 1898 of Sudanese soldiers who mutinied during the early days of British rule in Uganda.

Amin's announcement came a few hours after two British officers, Lt. Gen. Sir Chandos Blair, former commanding officer of the Fourth Battalion of the King's African Rifles, and Maj. Iain Grahame, formerly Amin's commander in the King's African Rifles, flew into Kampala from London with the queen's letter.

Amin boarded a helicopter and flew to northern Uganda to attend a ceremony marking Africa Refugee Day before the envoys could hand over the letter, the radio said. However, an earlier broadcast said Blair had met with Amin, discussing military matters.

In Brussels, the Parliament of the Common Market also urged Amin to spare Hill's life.

In addition to demanding that Callaghan fly to Kampala, Amin has stipulated that Britain expel Ugandan exiles, supply Uganda with military spare parts, and halt "malicious propaganda" against the African country, a former British colony.

A Ugandan court found Hills guilty of treason for his remarks about Amin in a book manuscript.

However, another Briton, 38-year-old businessman Stanley Smolen, was cleared Thursday on charges of hoarding cooking oil. If convicted he too would have faced the firing squad, and Amin said the acquittal showed that justice prevails in Uganda.

Amin met Smolen, a building contractor, and members of the tribunal shortly after the verdict was announced and posed for photographs, Radio Uganda said.

The broadcast said Amin told Smolen that he, his family and property would be protected, the radio said. It added that Smolen told Amin he had been well looked after while in military custody and said his case had been handled fairly.

Pomona police vote 'no strike'

Vow slowdown if dispute unresolved

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

Pomona policemen voted 89-1 Friday night not to go out on strike but promised a "job action" effective July 1 if an acceptable salary agreement with the city has not been reached.

Richard Shaurette, president of the association, described the job action as a "professionalization campaign" during which officers would take all the time they judge necessary investigating crimes.

The result of such an action, said Shaurette, would be that low priority calls would not be answered as quickly by police as in the past since officers would take more time in processing each incident — in effect, a job slowdown.

Shaurette promised, however, that all emergency calls would be handled as quickly as possible.

"We decided against a strike at this time because it would endanger Pomona citizens," he said.

Friday night's general membership meeting of the Police Officer's Association was called after the officers' negotiators claimed the city was demanding a 7.5 per cent salary cut for all policemen.

City Administrator Jerrold Gonce later denied that report.

Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire said Friday night that the total salary and fringe benefit proposal made by the police would cost Pomona taxpayer's more than $962,000 per year.

Lepire said the proposal includes a 15 per cent increase in salary, increased vacation benefits, two additional holidays, increased retirement benefits, payment of unused sick leave at twice the present rate, time and one half for all hours worked beyond a 40-hour week, city payment of major medical, hospitalization and dental insurance premiums for officer's dependents, a bonus for all officers who can speak Spanish, and other benefits.

"The City Council believes that the city should not fully meet these demands as presented. To do so would require substantial tax increases or definite cutbacks in the manpower of the Pomona Police Department and, conceivably, other city departments," said Lepire.

The mayor said that police salaries in Pomona are already nearly the highest in all of Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties.

He said the city is willing to meet some of the fringe benefit requests in exchange for salary increases.

Shaurette said that the 15 per cent increase proposal was not out of line considering the year's inflationary rise of 12 per cent and the increased salaries reportedly being received by city firemen under a three-year agreement reach last year.

He said that the police officers are not willing to accept less pay than received by firemen.

Shaurette also claimed that the salary request was justified due to the increased workload carried by officers because the Police Department is "undermanned."

The threatened "job action" by police is the second time in three years that salary negotiations between the city and police have boiled over in charges and counter-charges.

Two years ago wives and families of police officers picketed in response to the city's salary offer of 5 percent. Last year police officers received a 12.7 per cent increase.

This year only one negotiating session has been held, which Shaurette described as a stalemate due to the city's "take it or leave it" salary cut demand.

Further negotiating sessions have not been scheduled although meetings are expected to take place early next week.

Supervisors vote to keep 25-cent bus fare

LOS ANGELES (AP) — County supervisors reversed an earlier decision and voted Friday to keep the 25 cent fare for most Los Angeles bus riders.

The new subsidy plan will have passengers pay an extra 25 cents only if they ride for longer distances into another zone.

The supervisors voted 4-1 in favor of the $12.9 million compromise plan developed in negotiations with officials of the Southern California Rapid Transit District.

A 3-2 vote Wednesday had favored a $1.1 million subsidy which called for an increase to a flat fare of 35 cents throughout the county.

Supervisor Pete Schabarum strongly opposed the new plan, saying supervisor Kenneth Hahn used "flagrant lobbying" to get supervisors to change their minds.

Schabarum has said that outlying areas, such as those in his First District, are being shortchanged on public transportation at the benefit of the inner city.

County budget of $3 billion ups tax rate

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The county board of supervisors adopted a $3 billion budget Friday for 1975-76 that calls for an increase of about 21 cents in the county tax rate.

The 4-1 vote on the budget ended more than two weeks of deliberations in which the supervisors cut the proposed tax increase from the 40 cents projected by chief administrative officer Harry Hufford.

The major savings came from a 3½ per cent across-the-board cut on county departments and by diverting more revenue sharing money.

Supervisor Pete Schabarum, the main opponent of the budget, called it a "real fiscal boondoggle" which he said shortchanged his constituents in the eastern part of the county.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger said Friday Russia has started deploying three powerful new intercontinental ballistic missiles, two of them with multiple warheads.

Schlesinger's report at a news conference indicated significant progress in new Soviet missile deployments since last January.

At the same time, Schlesinger said that recent Soviet long range missile tests into the Pacific showed that the Russians "are in the process of attaining" improved accuracy with their new family of missiles.

He and other defense officials have expressed concern in the past that deployment of a large number of new accurate Soviet missiles armed with multiple warheads which could be aimed precisely at separate targets, could pose a knockout threat to U.S. missiles by the early 1980's.

Schlesinger said "I find it disquieting" that the Soviet Union has been unable to see the mutual advantage of avoiding acquisition of a major ability to destroy an opponent's missiles in a surprise first strike.

The defense secretary said he wished the Russians showed "more restraint" in moving toward such a "counter force" ability, which he and others have warned would increase the risk of nuclear war.

At the same time, Schlesinger said bluntly that "we would not allow our position to become secondary."

Schlesinger reported that the Russians have deployed 50 SS19 missiles, each of which has been tested with six multiple warheads (MIRVs). The deployment of this missile continues, Schlesinger said.

He also disclosed that ten SS17 missiles, each of which can carry four multiple warheads, are now combat ready at launch bases inside Russia.

The biggest Soviet missile, the SS18, is operational with a single warhead, he said, adding that 10 of them are already in place.

A multiple warhead version of the giant SS18 has not yet been deployed, but Schlesinger said he expects this to happen "on the basis of tests to date."

In two SS18 tests in the Pacific earlier this month, Schlesinger said, at least seven multiple warheads were dispensed by single SS18's.

Last January, Schlesinger announced the deployment of the single warhead version of the SS18 and said there were indications that the SS19 was starting to enter Russia's nuclear strike force. His new report suggests that the Russians had moved well beyond that point in the last six months.

Discussing accuracy, in which the Russians are believed to have trailed the United States, Schlesinger said the recent SS18 tests demonstrated that the Russian missile men "are in the process of attaining a reasonable degree of accuracy."

He described their progress as "slightly better ... in the area of accuracy than might have been anticipated."

As a sidelight, Schlesinger said, during the recent Pacific tests, one of the Soviet warheads fell within 100 yards of a U.S. ship observing the tests in the area about 600 miles north of Midway Island.

Under the tentative ten year nuclear arms control agreement with Russia, each side is allowed up to 1,320 missiles armed with multiple warheads.

Schlesinger indicated that the U.S. government is pushing for what he called counting rules, which would provide exceedingly tight verification to guard against cheating on the new agreement, which still is being negotiated.

Apart from land based intercontinental ballistic missiles, Schlesinger said the Russians "may be moving towards" an advanced missile firing submarine of the delta class that could carry more than 16 missiles.

This sounded like the Russians are following a plan similar to the United States which is embarked on a program to build 10 super missile-firing submarines, each armed with 24 deep striking nuclear tipped missiles.

Donnelly pointed out that unless school board members meet with individuals and groups in the community, the information they get is "filtered" through the district administration, or slanted to the administration's view.

"It's very important that there be a check and balance system between the administration and the school board," Donnelly said.

Mrs. Isbell will be at her desk to make appointments for school board members Monday through Friday from 8:30 to 4:30 p.m.

CIA probers to guard witnesses?

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP) — Sen. Frank Church, chairman of the committee investigating the Central Intelligence Agency said Friday the committee will consider protecting its witnesses, following the shoot-5 ing death of reputed mobster Sam Giancana.

But the Idaho Democrat, here for an inland waterway dedication, said he would give "no credence" to any suggestion that the CIA was in any way connected with the death of Giancana Thursday night.

Church said Giancana was supposed to testify before a grand jury in Chicago probing organized crime and may have been shot to prevent him from giving testimony to that grand jury.

"We have other witnesses who keep the same company (as Giancana)," Church said in explaining why protection might be needed.

A 'key' to closer communication

Members of the Pomona school board, who once again will begin drawing pay for their services July 1, now have keys to the Education Center and office space on first and second floors.

The pay, approved by the board for the first time in Pomona's history on Jan. 1, 1974, was relinquished early this spring when drastic cuts were threatened unless voters approved a tax override providing additional money for 1975-76. The override was approved.

By a unanimous vote, the board reinstated the pay two weeks ago.

It amounts to $30 per meeting per board member to a maximum of $200 a month. It could cost taxpayers a maximum of $12,000 a year. It is allowable under AB 1489.

Board president Don Donnelly said door keys and office space will allow board members to maintain closer communication with individuals and groups in the community.

Effective immediately, anyone wishing to meet with a board member may call Mrs. Louise Isbell at 623-5251, Ext. 230, and make an appointment. Appointments may be made evenings and weekends, Donnelly said.

"Historically," said Donnelly, "Pomona has had a school board almost in absenteeism. Now there is a real commitment on the part of some board members, and a strong desire, to be in closer communication with the public."

"The school board wants to be visible in the community, and available to parents to discuss their problems. We want the public to know that we want to do a better job."

Donnelly pointed out that unless school board members meet with individuals and groups in the community, the information they get is "filtered" through the district administration, or slanted to the administration's view.

"It's very important that there be a check and balance system between the administration and the school board," Donnelly said.

Mrs. Isbell will be at her desk to make appointments for school board members Monday through Friday from 8:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Subpoena Lockheed files

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee has subpoenaed records of Lockheed Corp. in a probe of allegations that the company made payoffs to sell its airplanes.

The subcommittee is following up on its probe of Northrop Corp. another California-based aircraft maker, which admitted paying $450,000 in bribe money intended for two Saudi Arabian generals who allegedly threatened to block a big sale of F5E jet fighters.

Documents released in connection with the Northrop probe showed that its officials were told that Lockheed also had paid off unnamed Saudi Arabian officials, an allegation denied by Lockheed.

Northrop also said it was copying Lockheed's methods when it set up a controversial Swiss sales corporation, which Northrop said could possibly have been a conduit for more payoffs.

Following the Northrop probe the subcommittee sent an investigator to Lockheed's headquarters in Burbank, Calif. for several days. Now the panel has summoned Lockheed chairman Daniel J. Haughton to testify, and has subpoenaed records of the company's overseas transactions, a subcommittee source said. No public hearings are scheduled yet on the Lockheed matter, and a source said none will be held for at least 10 days.

The panel is the subcommittee on multinational corporations, headed by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho. It plans to take public testimony next week from Pentagon officials about overseas payoffs in connection with arms sales.

Sen. Kennedy flays U.S. arms sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said that the United States is "aiding and abetting" an arms race in the Persian Gulf area by indiscriminate sale of modern weapons.

"We're running incredible risks of reducing rather than enhancing security in the region," he said, including the possibility that the United States could again be drawn into a distant conflict.

Kennedy testified before a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee in support of his bill to impose a six-month moratorium on all arms sales in the Persian Gulf states unless the Ford administration submits an overall policy and Congress approves it.

Kennedy said U.S. arms sales to Persian Gulf countries in fiscal 1974 totaled $5.9 billion and amounted to another $3.75 billion through June 1 of the 1975 fiscal year.

He said he could "detect no overall U.S. policy toward Persian Gulf nations that would justify the flow of arms."

Young slayer, 14, goes to CYA

A 14-year-old boy who shot an apartment house owner to death in Pomona April 21 has been committed to the custody of the California Youth Authority after having been found guilty of murder in a Juvenile Court trial.

The youth, who was not identified because of his age, was ruled guilty by Pomona Juvenile Court Commissioner Gerald Malkin, who then committed him. Ordinarily, the CYA retains custody of youths committed by the Juvenile Court for murder until they are 21, authorities said.

The conviction was obtained by Deputy Dist. Atty. Phil Millett. Pomona attorney Barry Plotkin represented the youth.

The victim of the slaying was 25-year-old Clare Evans Koopmans of Arcadia, a construction company owner who also owned the apartment building at 2433 Chanslor

St. Koopmans was shot from behind a fence bordering his property. Police said that earlier he had chased off a 9-year-old boy he suspected of planning to steal items from his pickup truck parked in front of the building.

Officers stated that the 14-year-old witness

Koopmans' action and left to go home and get a .22-caliber rifle. He returned and ambushed Koopmans from behind the fence, shooting him in the chest, police said. The victim was pronounced dead at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Area hit by series of quakes

EL CENTRO (AP) — A chain of 17 earthquakes rattled this area, triggering burlar alarms and a rash of phone calls but causing no damage authorities reported.

"We could feel it pretty good," said El Centro police officer Donald Franks of the strongest quake which hit at 10:48 Thursday night.

Graham Berry, a spokesman for theseismological laboratory at California Institute of Technology in Pasadena, said the strongest temblor registered 4.2 on the Richter Scale. Another quake at 12:02 in the afternoon registered 3.5 and a third 3.9 at 9:14 p.m., he said. The 14 other quakes were minor he said.

The strongest quake was centered five miles east of this city, the county seat of agricultural Imperial County.

"We had people calling to ask what was happening, but we have no reports of any damages," Franks said.

Berry said quake clusters are not unusual in this area where geothermal wells are being dug. In January, 1,000 quakes hit the Brawley area within a five-day period.

Seek aides in disabled child work

Volunteers are needed to staff the summer recreation program for handicapped children and young adults at the Pomona Regional Center of the Crippled Children's Society.

The program is scheduled from July 1 through Aug. 29.

To be conducted at the regional center, 480 N. Indian Hill Blvd., Claremont, the summer program includes music, games, swimming, arts and crafts, parties, outings and special events.

Anyone over the age of 14 can serve as a volunteer, according to Steve Noceti, recreation director at the center.

Volunteers are asked to attend an orientation meeting Monday at 10 a.m. at the center. Interested persons can sign up for service hours at the meeting.

Record L.A., Orange inflation

Sharp price hike in 2 counties

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Residents paid record inflationary prices in Orange and Los Angeles counties during May, with bills soaring for housing, gasoline and medical needs, the federal government reported today.

The consumer price increase, despite the recession, is keeping pace with 1974's record inflation, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics added in its monthly report.

The statistics show consumer prices jumped 0.8 per cent from the previous month for the two-county area, bringing the figures to 4.6 per cent for the first five months of the year and to 11.8 per cent above the mark just 12 months ago.

Some authorities had projected that the recession would sharply fall from the 1974 inflation rate — which wound up about 12 per cent nationwide. May's 0.8 figure comes out to just below a projected 10 per cent a year.

The government reported the consumer price index stood at 156.9 at the end of last month. That means goods and services which cost $10 just eight years ago now cost $15.69.

Housing costs rose sharply, soaring 1.2 per cent in May for a whopping 17.6 per cent increase over just 12 months ago. The breakdown shows homeownership costs, including new purchases and financing, jumped 1.6 per cent in just a month. Rents went up 0.9 per cent.

Other jumps: fuel and utilities 0.1 per cent, transportation including car repairs, gasoline and used car purchases 1.2 per cent, health and recreation 0.6 per cent, medical costs 0.9 per cent.

Did anything cost less? A spokesman said prescription drug costs were somewhat lower.

She is shown in a 1936 photo, left and as she appeared in her dance hall days.

2 CIM inmates flee with cook as hostage

An all-points bulletin was issued Friday for two inmates of the California Institution for Men (CIM) at Chino who escaped in a state-owned, orange pickup truck after forcing a staff cook to drive them to Los Angeles.

Wanted are Dale Jennings, 38, imprisoned in 1967 for first-degree murder, paroled in 1973, then returned in January 1974 as a parole violator with a conviction for first degree robbery from San Diego, and Thomas Matlock, 31, imprisoned in 1971 for second-degree robbery.

Prison authorities said the two inmates were accompanying staff cook Peter Travino from the main kitchen to the east reception center at 9:30 a.m. Friday in the truck. One allegedly pulled a small handgun and forced Travino to drive the truck off the prison grounds and into Los Angeles.

When they reached Los Angeles, the inmates took his money, tied him up and fled. Travino kicked a wall in the motel until someone freed him. He then called the Los Angeles Police Department. He was unharmed.

Sirica turns down Liddy

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica refused Friday to cut the stiff prison sentence he handed G. Gordon Liddy, te silent Watergate burglary chief.

The judge said Liddy "has not given the court even a hint of contrition or sorrow."

Of all the men sentenced for Watergate and related crimes, Liddy received the harshest sentence — 6 years, 8 months to 20 years for conspiracy, burglary and wiretapping.

"This defendant's obstinate disregard for the processes of law is difficult for the court to comprehend," Sirica said in a six-page memorandum

3 valley cities grow, 2 shrink in latest count

Three valley cities increased their population and two showed decreases in the latest estimates released by the Los Angeles County Regional Planning Commission.

The figures, covering the first six months of 1974, show a total county population decline of 33,000. East San Gabriel Valley, on the other hand, showed an increase of 1,810 from 612,245 in January to 614,055 on July 1 of the same year.

Claremont increased its estimated count by 179 persons, from 24,748 on Jan. 1 to 24,927 on July 1. Even with the increase, Claremont changed its size ranking from 46 to 47 in the county.

Walnut showed the largest increase in the valley with an additional 353 persons. Its July 1 population of 6,593 made it the 70th city in county in size.

San Dimas increased its count by 183, raising the figure from 16,679 to 16,862. It is ranked 54th in the county.

Pomona's population decreased by 2,523, changing the figures from 83,223 in January to 80,700 on July 1, 1974. It fell from 11th to 12th in size.

Also recording a decrease in population was La Verne. A loss of 89 residents changed its population from 15,553 to 15,444. It remained the 59th city in the county.

While population in cities in Los Angeles County dropped by 36,000 in the first six months of 1974, peripheral urban expansion was strong enough to record a net increase of 3,000 residents in those areas.

Major changes in population trends include the apparent slowing of outmigration from the southeast areas and unexpected population losses in almost all of the cities and communities along Santa Monica Bay with the notable exception of the Marina del Rey.

Pomona was one of six cities posting a loss of more than 1,000 people. Other cities were Burbank, Long Beach, Los Angeles, Montebello and Santa Monica.

On the whole, cities reported a condition of relative population stability. This is illustrated by the fact that 52 of the 78 cities in Los Angeles County recorded a difference of less than one per cent in the six months period.

Trial of 1 suspect in cycle shop slaying is separated

The trial of one motorcyclist accused with three others of murder, kidnaping and attempted murder has been severed from their trial as the result of a ruling by Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Earl Broady.

The man who will stand trial alone is Gregory White, 20-year-old Rowland Heights man against whom the prosecution has indicated the death penalty will be sought.

White and the other three — Donald Kelso, 25, Ontario, Charles Evans, 34, Lawndale, and David Dupres, 19, Torrance — are accused of murdering two men they confronted in an Industry motorcycle shop Feb. 5. One, Michael O'Hara, 25, Pomona, was taken from the shop, shot to death and dumped from a car in Chino. The other slain man, Adelbert Hempy, 34, Ontario, was killed inside the shop. A third man escaped with a bullet wound in one leg.

Broady's ruling granted the motion made by White's attorney at the previous hearing. The motion was based on the contention that a conflict might develop among defense lawyers in regards to evidence and statements if all four suspects were tried together, court attaches said.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Richard L. Jenkins said that White's trial is scheduled to begin July 14 and will require about three weeks. The other men's trial date will be set on July 14. That trial is expected to take three to four weeks, Jenkins said. Both cases will be tried in Broady's court.

The four men originally were scheduled for trial in Pomona Superior Court, but the case was transferred into Los Angeles because of a new state law having to do with the manner in which juries are selected.

The shootings were the result of rivalries between two Valley motorcycle gangs, sheriff's investigators said.

Councilmen finish Chino budget work

Chino city councilmen have ended their discussions on the proposed $6.5 million budget, and a final spending plan is expected to be approved July 1.

The council this week decided no further budget work sessions were necessary, after City Manager Robert Fast answered the only two questions raised at the June 10 meeting.

In response to one question, Fast said county residents pay about 84 cents per $100 of assessed valuation as their share of the Chino Rural Fire Protection District tax rate. City residents pay the same amount, which is under the 95-cent ceiling allowed by Senate Bill 90.

Fast explained that the second question raised by councilmen, concerning street sweeping, only came up because of a typographical error in the budget.

Councilmen seemed pleased with Fast's explanation, and indicated the budget would be okayed at the July 1 meeting.

In other business, the council approved a plan by which the city will self-insure in future workmen's compensation cases.

The conversion involves cancellation of a current city policy with the State Compensation Insurance Fund, and an agreement with R. L. Kautz and Co. of Los Angeles to administer the self-insurance plan for $3,303 annually.

To cover disasters, the city will contract for additional insurance with a local agent or broker.

That insurance will carry a $50,000 deductible and cover a maximum liability of $1 million.

Finance Director James Diaz said a number of area cities such as Upland and Montclair have become self-insured on workmen's compensation. In March, the Chino school board converted to the plan, also using Kautz to administer it.

Diaz said the city will continue to maintain a high level of employee protection, as guaranteed by state law.

Major reasons for the conversion, he said, are to cut the costs of premiums under the state's insurance plan, and to provide more personalized service to employees.

Premiums paid to the state have been increasing over the past several years, and insurance costs generally are lower under self-insurance, based on reports from cities that have it, Diaz explained.

He estimated the city could save about $190,000 each year under the self-insurance plan.

A recent court case, decided in favor of an employee, had the effect of expanding employers' liability and raising state premiums he said.

Councilmen, in another matter, approved a program by which historical items would be placed on display at the new Civic Center. Display cases would be provided inside and outside the new city hall.

The suggestion for the displays came from Councilwoman Eileen Carter, who said it was an outgrowth of the plea for preservation of the Galbreath Building. That plea was turned down, but items saved from that building may be shown in the display cases.

Contract for Baldy tunnel lights given

A $39,200 contract for the installation of lights in two tunnels along Mt. Baldy Road has been awarded to a Long Beach firm by Los Angeles County supervisors.

The lighting project is an outgrowth of a plea from Supervisor Peter Schabarum, following an accident in one of the tunnels which claimed the life of a 14-year-old Chino youth.

The construction contract was awarded to Phoenix Electrical Service Co., which underbid two other firms. The high bid was $49,683.

Total cost of the project will be about $100,000, according to a county spokesman. It will cost about $70,000 for the lighting fixtures.

The project will provide 24-hour lighting in the two tunnels and night lighting of the tunnel approaches.

Officials said the construction should take about 2½ months, with completion expected by late August. The work should begin within the next two weeks, and traffic will be reduced to one lane in both directions, through the tunnels.

Gas firm proposing a rebate

The Southern California Gas Co. has submitted a plan to the California Public Utilities Commission to refund about $45.6 million to its 3.3 million customers.

If approved, refunds to the residential customers will range from $4.24 to $4.43 in the form of credits on July gas bills, said Ben Wilson, local district manager.

The refunds resulted from the settlement of five rate cases before the Federal Power Commission involving the El Paso Natural Gas Co., principal supplier of out-of-state gas to the Southern California Gas Co. The cases were filed from January 1961 to November 1973.

From the time it received the El Paso refunds in March until the planned refunds begin July 2, the gas company is applying interest at 7 per cent which will be included in the credit to customers.

district's policy in formulating a league policy. All districts adopted the Claremont plan "in substance" for their own policies.

"Why don't we say that we're satisfied with our own policy except in the matter of the closing of schools?" board member Arthur Steffen suggested.

Kirkendall said that he has talked to a staff member at the APCD office and tentatively worked out an agreement on the closing of schools.

In other actions, the board adopted a resolution opposing Assembly Bill 824 which would mandate the establishment of trustee areas for elections of members of governing boards of school districts with average daily attendance of more than 1,000.

Claremont thinks its policy better than APCD's: keep kids at school

The Claremont school board has taken exception to an Air Pollution Control District request that the district change its smog plan and close schools during a third-stage episode.

The board Monday night felt that its adopted plan is "more realistic" than the APCD's request.

In the district plan, upon declaration of a third-stage episode when the ozone count averages .60 parts per million for an hour and is predicted to persist for an additional hour, all operations are subject to district civil defense and disaster policies and procedures.

Supt. R. S. Kirkendall told the board that the district's policy now is stronger than what the APCD wants the district to have.

As an example, Kirkendall suggested that if school were in session and a stage 3 smog alert were called, to close the schools "would not be in the best interest of students nor of the district's commitment not to produce more smog."

By closing the schools, Kirkendall said that students would be put on the streets in cars they would drive or their parents would drive, thereby creating more problems.

"It would be better that we keep them in school," Kirkendall said.

He said that Claremont is the first district to have its policy reviewed by the APCD, and that the district adopted its policy in 1970, far ahead of other districts.

In fact, last fall the San Antonio League schools used Claremont dis-

CANOEING, SWIMMING . . . THE THRILLS OF THE OUT-DOORS

Karen sees no hope in the future. All she knows is that in the past three years she has been in five foster homes. She feels that no one will ever want or love her.

Karen's mother deserted Karen and her brother and sister when they were babies. Karen was 2, her sister 3 and her brother 11 months. After their mother left, the three children were placed in a foster home. They lived with the same family until Karen was 8.

Then, when their foster mother tried to adopt them, their father took them away, saying that he could provide for them. Unable to cope with his three children after several months, Karen's father placed them with different relatives. Last month the children moved in with an uncle.

Karen wants to be back with her foster mother but her father has legal custody of them and refuses to relinquish his claim. Karen is lonely and sad. She has lived with her uncle only a short time and does not have many friends. Karen's uncle and counselors feel that camp will enable her to meet and play with children her own age and to make new friends. They also hope that camp and the trained counselors there will help her to better adjust to her new home.

Karen's uncle cannot afford to send her to camp. He and his wife have four children of their own and with Karen and her brother and sister coming to live with them they now must feed and care for seven children.

Your dollars can help Karen and other children like her to experience at least one week of fun this summer. Your dollars can send local needy children to a week of summer camp where they will swim, canoe, hike, study nature and be able to play and work with children their own age.

MSAC okays tentative budget showing a slight tax increase

The Mt. San Antonio College board has approved a tentative budget of $19,891,434 for the 1975-76 fiscal year, which represents an increase of approximately 12 per cent over the present budget.

This budget reflects the approximately 8 per cent salary increases granted in June for certificated and classified personnel.

It calls for an approximate two-cent increase per $100 assessed valuation in the property tax rate — from 69 to 71 cents.

The published budget will be presented at the next board of trustees meeting July 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the administration building on the campus.

In further action at the Thursday meeting, trustees approved a restricted reserve of not less than 5 per cent in the forthcoming budget. The budget has always included a restricted reserve to cover summer salaries and other contingencies, but it has not been so large.

However, because the 1975-76 budget is $2 million over the actual budget of 1974-75, the board felt the increased sum was necessary. The 1974-75 estimated budget was $16,813,874 and the actual budget was $18,477,012. The budget increase reflected the increase in funds allotted to the college due to an increased enrollment.

This year, the college estimates an additional 2 per cent increase in student enrollment.

It was explained by trustees that most community colleges in California have had an increase in student enrollment.

In addition to programs encouraging veterans, older students and minority students, the colleges are being attended by adults who are unable to find work or those seeking retraining for careers.

The enrollment this summer is at an all-time high of 5,815 an increase of 38 per cent over last summer.

Sources of income for the tentative budget include $348,824 from federal funds; $7,729,996, state funds; $192,040, county funds; and $8,105,943 from local property taxes. An additional approximately $3 million in the beginning balance brings the figure to the nearly $20 million.

The sermon for the service will be delivered by David Keil, who is a recent graduate for the Concordia Seminary in Springfield, Ill. He is visiting the church prior to becoming pastor of the Mt. Olive Lutheran Church in Richmond next month.

Orange

Orange juice is an excellent source of Vitamin C with 4 fl. ounces (½ cup) supplying 100 per cent of the U.S. RDA. At present, frozen orange juice is an especially good buy since it is less expensive than fresh, but is equally nutritious.

Miracle E

Vitamin E seems to be our current "miracle" vitamin. Can it really prevent heart disease, sterility, and aging? Claims such as these for Vitamin E are endless. Most of them can be traced to symptoms of diseases observed in animals suffering from a deficiency of Vitamin E. To date, no deficiencies have been observed in humans. However, reliable studies are now underway to provide answers to these and other questions.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Situations that you direct today will prove to be fortunate for all involved.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) People in general today still tend to treat you extremely generously. Gather your harvest while the getting's good.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Bargains or agreements today will be lasting and bountiful, especially if a friend you've known for some time is involved.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be particularly attentive to people you meet today whose line of work is similar to yours. They may know of an opportunity for you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't turn down any social invitations today, even if you have to attend several. A valuable contact is waiting to meet you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Should conditions lend themselves to closing an important matter today, jump on it. Luck will help you profit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Good news will be coming to you shortly through two different sources. You could even hear bits and pieces of it today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your aspects are very favorable at this time in regard to material blessings. Before the week is out your resources could increase.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're likely to be the guy who winds up with everyone's chips today in your friendly little penny ante poker game.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be patient, breaks are coming that aren't completely visible yet. Things will work out as well as you dare hope.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You are much more capable at handling major projects today than you are with smaller issues. Skip the little things till later.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll be lucky today in any dealings you have affecting your finances or career. Be positive. Conduct your affairs accordingly.

Your Birthday June 22, 1975

Two to serve on Youth Alice team

Two young people from Peace Lutheran Church in Pomona have been selected to serve with the 1975 summer contact team of Lutheran Youth Alive Summer Team Ministry of Southern and Northern California.

They are Marsha Zelt, 19, a student at Mt. San Antonio College in Walnut, who is returning for a second summer with the team, and Jim Dill, 17, a senior at Lutheran High School in La Verne.

Miss Zelt is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Zelt of Diamond Bar. Dill's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Mike Dill of Pomona.

Team members will train at the Loving Shepherd Lutheran Church in Gardena through June 28. Miss Zelt and Dill will serve until Aug. 26.

Andy Bull, summer team coordinator, said the summer team ministry is an inter-synodical movement which allows Christian youth to share their faith through music, Bible teaching, prayer, programs and witnessing.

Amish arrive to found settlement

HARTLAND, Maine (AP) — After a journey in horse-drawn covered wagons from Pennsylvania and Maryland, a group of 18 Amish has arrived in this rural Maine town to found a settlement.

The settlers have been given 250 acres of rent-free land to establish their village and church.

The group is led by Roland Church, a Maine native who converted to the Amish faith in 1971. He has journeyed through 48 states seeking converts to join him in the Maine settlement.

The group refuses to talk to newsmen and shuns publicity. It adorned its wagons with religious quotations condemning modern society and spreading their missionary message. "Repent, and believe the Gospel."

With Church and his wife and two daughters are David Byler, his wife, Katie, and their 12 children. Richard Skilton, a North Haven, Conn., native, joined the settlers in Meriden, Conn.

Mrs. Church said the group has received a warm welcome and offers of assistance. She added, however, that the settlers plan to be self-sufficient and not depend on charity.

The Byler family speaks old High German and is teaching the others the traditional Amish language.

The settlers do their washing in a barrel with a plunger, and the wagons are equipped with cookstoves and bunkbeds.

When Maine Gov. James B. Longley greeted the group in Topsham last week, he said, "We need more people to return to the land and the simple life."

The land was given to the group by Lewis Elliot, an old friend of Church. Elliot said the settlement would benefit him because the 250 acres need attention he is not able to provide.

He added, "They will clear and improve the land. By doing that they will earn the use of it."

Church said that on their journey, the travelers earned money by doing odd jobs, shoeing horses, cutting asparagus, trimming fruit trees and picking produce. They received gifts from residents along the route, including tomato plants and seed potatoes, to help them start their new life.

'Old time religion' miracle meetings return to valley

Marvin Schmidt is preaching the "old time religion" and conducting "miracle" meetings in the valley on a regular basis after being on the evangelistic circuit for 17 years.

He will present an interfaith service Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Ebell Club, Pomona. He preaches at the Ebell clubhouse on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month and holds believers' meetings each Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at 10th Street and Garey Avenue, Pomona.

Perhaps one of the most unusual features of his ministry is the phenomenon of individuals falling prostrate when he prays for them, Schmidt says. Called "falling under the power" or "being slain in the Spirit," this behavior has been a controversial invasion to the religious community and has been a part of the early church history of nearly every major denomination, he says.

Schmidt does not claim to be healer nor does he pray for people in a healing line. He says people are healed by their own faith.

MARVIN SCHMIDT

Seek funds for activity center

"You, Me and God," a religious organization in Los Angeles, will present a fund-raising gospel musical tonight from 8 to 10 p.m. in the Pomona Education Center to benefit the People's Coalition Recovery House, a drug-recovery house in Pomona.

Those scheduled to perform include Betty Perkins, Kathryn Jackson, The Outstandings, Brenda Harris and Marvin Jenkins.

Tickets are on sale at the Recovery House at 998 W. Ninth St.; Bailey's Market, 1976 W. Phillips Blvd.; the Pomona Valley Shell Station at 604 W. Holt Ave., and National Glass Co., 1181 W. Holt Ave.

Ex-school chaplain is guest

The Rev. Harold Lorimer, former administrator-chaplain of Sherman Indian High School in Riverside, will serve as guest minister during services Sunday at Christ Lutheran Church in Chino.

The 8:15 and 10:45 a.m. services will be followed by coffee fellowships.

Mr. Lorimer, while in Riverside, helped establish the Good Samaritan Boys Home in Corona. He has given spiritual comfort to some 4,000 boys and girls in the past five years. He will be filling in for the Rev. Aaron Plugger, church pastor, who is presently conducting a tour of Bible lands in the Middle East.

Less is news

Tiny tops worn with shorts or jeans and next-to-nothing halter dresses are fashion news this season. For those who favor deep tans, select halter tops or dresses in pretty, flattering pastels.

MENLO PARK, Calif. (AP) — The Stanford Research Institute wants to put a flywheel in your tank.

The independent, non-profit organization is reaching back to one of mankind's earliest inventions — the potter's wheel — in hopes of producing a flywheel which "may replace gasoline" for most city driving by 1990.

Mechanical engineer Peter M. Newgard, 42, in charge of the project, noted that the concept of flywheel-operated vehicles has been around for years. Flywheel-run buses once operated in Europe and Asia, but were discontinued as impractical, he said. Schemes for flywheel vehicles in this country have been scrapped for the same reason.

Now, development of a light, super-strong material — a fibrous product called "Kevlar" — offers hope of a practical flywheel engine, Newgard said, contending that the key to a practical flywheel is lightness and weight. Like the potter's wheel, and the flywheels installed in many modern machines, the device Newgard hopes to develop would, by spinning, store kinetic energy capable of doing work as it slows down. The "work," in this case, would be turning automobile wheels.

"It now appears we will be able to build a 350-pound flywheel that can store enough energy to drive 3,000-pound car about 30 miles," he said.

The flywheel would, in a sense, take the place of a battery in an electrically operated car. But instead of a battery to produce power, the spinning flywheel operates a motor-generator to turn the vehicle's wheels.

Newgard said his SRI-financed team already has operated a one-pound flywheel at 15,000 revolutions per minute which was capable of generating 16 watts of power for one hour. A common storage battery produces about 10 watts per hour, he said.

The fullsize flywheel would be expected to spin at 30,000 rpm and propel a car for 30 miles or remain on standby, spinning "for several days" before it would have to be recharged. An electrical or gas engine, outside the auto, would be needed to set the flywheel spinning again.

In a fullsize operational model, Newgard believes the flywheel will have to be housed in a vacuum chamber to overcome friction, and the housing would have to be foolproof to keep the wheel from breaking loose.

It's all happening at the U.S. Open

Tom Watson (left) lets out a yell, Gary Player (center) dances a little jig and Johnny Miller flashes the okay sign in the second round of the U.S. Open at Medinah, Ill., Friday. Watson's jubilant shout came as he watched his putt on the 11th green drop for a birdie, but Player's body english had little effect as he missed a bird attempt on the eighth hole. Miller appears satisfied with a par-3 as he walks off the second hole. Watson's round of 68 Friday gave him a total of 135 and a three-stroke lead over the pack, but Miller (147) and Player (148) were well back.

Olivares KOs Chacon in 2nd

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Mexico City's Ruben Olivares knocked down Californian Bobby Chacon twice in the second round and won by a knockout when referee Larry Rozadilla stopped the World Boxing Council featherweight title fight before the stanza ended.

Olivares, 125½, became the second boxer in history to hold two different weight classification titles twice. On two occasions the 28-year-old Mexican had been the world bantamweight king and once before held this 126-pound title.

Chacon, 124½, from Sylmar, Calif. near this Forum battle site, was first staggered by a right hand, then went down from three successive rights and a left hand put him down again.

The 28-year-old Olivares slammed the ex-schoolboy at will before Rozadilla called a halt after 2:29 of the explosive second round.

Chacon had trouble making the weight for his second attempt at defending the title he won last September and appeared listless even in the opening round.

With a crowd of 18,770 watching, the hard hitting Olivares took command in the opening stanza and backed Chacon into the ropes, landing a left and right to the head.

He did the same just before the bell.

A left and right combination to the head shook Bobby as the second round opened and the veteran little slugger from Mexico City took complete command.

Chacon wasn't hurt until the right caught him midway in the round and from that point on he had no defense against the Olivares smashers.

The crowd paid an estimated gate of $421,000, largest ever for a title fight in California and the largest in the state for a fight not including heavyweights.

Olivares scored his 71st knockout in 84 fights and put his record at 78-5-1.

In his younger years, he ruled the bantamweights and was the World Boxing Association featherweight titlist until stopped by Nicaragua's Alexis Arguello in this same Forum ring last Nov. 23.

Only Emile Griffith, welterweight and middleweight champ, ever held two titles twice previously.

Irish Art Hafe, 125½, San Diego registered a knockout in the fifth round over Vicente "Yambito" Blanco, 127, of Nicaragua, when the referee on the advice of the ring physician stopped the bloody encounter before the bell sounded for the sixth of the scheduled 10 rounds.

The game youngster from Nicaragua absorbed heavy punishment but suffered a bad cut over the right eye and a severe bruise under the same eye.

He was bleeding profusely. Hafe also bled from a slight eye cut, making it hard to tell whose blood was whose.

Aztecs score 1-0 victory

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Midfielder Fishaa drilled a 45-yard shot past Rochester Lancers' goalie Ardo Perri Friday night and gave the Los Angeles Aztecs a 1-0 victory in a North American Soccer League game.

Fishaa's score at 9:39 into the second half enabled the Aztecs to boost their season record to 6-6. His shot sailed into the lower right hand corner of the goal posts.

Watson hangs in there . . . and even pulls away

MEDINAH, Ill. (AP) — Tom Watson is composed, self-contained and supremely confident he can avert the dismal, egodestroying collapse that cost him the U.S. Open championship a year ago.

"I have great confidence," the articulate, intelligent young man said Friday after his storm-delayed start in the second round of the American national championship, the most coveted title golf can offer.

After some questioning by U.S. Golf Association officials about his refusal to tee off at his appointed time, Watson went out and fired a three-under-par 68 that gave him an Open record-matching 135 for the first two rounds of this 75th championship.

"I am more sure of myself and my ability to handle the pressure," said Watson, who held the third-round lead then blew it with a horrendous 79 over the last 18 holes last year.

Jack Nicklaus, however, had a different view of the situation after a 70 had given him a 142 total, even-par.

"If you look at history," said the most feared competitor the game has ever known, "par after two rounds of the U.S. Open is not a bad score. You can make up seven strokes in a hurry."

"But I don't look at it that way. The way I look at it is that there's only six guys in front of me. And that's not bad. My position is not bad at all."

Watson, who shared the firstround lead, assumed sole control with his seven-under-par total on the 7,032 yards of trees, traps and subtle troubles that make up the Medinah Country Club course.

And the demanding layout offered still another terror on Friday—lightning.

"It's nothing to fool around with," Watson said. "You're talking about your life. I have a lot more U.S. Opens to play in, but I have only one life."

With that in mind, he invoked the lightning rule and declined to tee off at his appointed time.

He was questioned about the decision by two U.S. Golf Association officials, including executive director P. J. Boatright in a conference in the huge old mosque of a clubhouse.

"They questioned whether the lightning was close enough for the rule to be invoked," Watson said. "We talked about it and they went out on the first tee and ZAP! there it hit. Mr. Boatright apologized to me later."

They also called a 35 minute halt to play while a brief but violent summer storm swept through with rain and lightning and left some lingering doubts that the day's play could be completed.

The shower also killed the fierce, 90-degree temperatures and matching humidity that plagued the early starters and sent the legendary Arnold Palmer stumbling back in the pack, limp and exhausted from the heat he called the worst in a decade.

Ben Crenshaw, a young man who has been in a long, disturbing slump since that sensational start to his pro career a couple of seasons ago, was alone in second halfway through this event with a 68 and a 138 total.

Pat Fitzsimons, who shared the first-round lead at 67 with Watson, was ambushed by a watery double bogey on the 17th hole, slipped to a 73 and was five strokes off the lead at 140.

"I'm not disappointed," said the 24-year-old Fitzsimons, who scored his lone victory early this season in the Los Angeles Open. "There's a lot of golf to be played yet. I just hope Watson doesn't get too far in front."

Lee Trevino, the current PGA champion and rated one of the top contenders here, headed a group at 141. Trevino, who played with Watson in a late pairing, had a second-round 69.

He was tied with journeymen pros Jim Wiechers and Terry Dill, the only others under par after 36 holes. Wiechers had a 73 and Dill a 69. Neither has ever won.

Halos win incredible marathon

ANAHEIM (AP) — The California Angels spotted Texas and Gaylord Perry a 6-0 lead in the first inning and finally rallied a second time to defeat the Rangers 12-11 Friday night with four runs in the 11th inning, the winning run scoring on a two-out error.

Texas broke an 8-8 tie with three unearned runs in the top of the 11th, two on Tom Grieve's homer. But John Doherty and Morris Nettles started the bottom of the 11th with doubles off Steve Foucault. Dave Chalk walked between two outs, but Rudy Meoli made up for a costly error with a run-scoring single and Dave Collins greeted Steve Hargan, the fourth Texas pitcher, with a game-tying single.

Meoli went to third and scored when rookie second baseman Mike Cabbage, who hit a grand slam homer in the opening inning, muffed Jerry Remy's grounder.

The Rangers' six-run first against Bill Singer was capped by Cabbage's grand slam—his first major league hit after 17 failures.

California got two runs back in the second on Andy Etchebarren's triple following a walk and Chalk's single and cut the deficit to 6-4 in the fourth on singles by Lee Stanton, Etchebarren and Meoli plus a double by Collins.

Hargrove's seventh homer—gave Texas a 7-4 lead in the fifth. But Chalk's two-run double following Joe Lahoud's double and a walk narrowed it to 7-6 in the same inning. The Angels took an 8-7 lead and chased Perry in the sixth.

Dodgers' win skein snapped

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Tito Fuentes singled home the tie-breaking run in the sixth inning and Brent Strom outduelled Don Sutton with a three-hitter as the San Diego Padres nipped Los Angeles 2-1 Friday night, ending the Dodgers' four-game winning streak.

The setback also dropped the Dodgers three games behind Cincinnati in the National League's West Division.

Strom, 1-1, making his second start since being recalled from the minors, fell behind 1-0 when Steve Garvey slammed the first pitch of the second inning for his eighth home run of the season.

Sutton, 11-6, held the lead until the fourth when Willie McCovey walloped his seventh homer to tie the score.

Sutton walked Gene Locklear to start the sixth and Mike Ivie sacrificed him to second. McCovey struck out before Fuentes' game-winning two-out hit.

Strom survived a ninth-inning threat by Los Angeles. Jimmy Wynn singled with two out and Strom struck out Garvey. But the third strike was also a wild pitch and Wynn went all the way to third with Garvey reaching second. Strom then fanned Ron Cey to end the game, his seventh strikeout.

In Strom's other start, he allowed one unearned run in eight innings but suffered the loss when New York's Tom Seaver blanked the Padres.

Sutton weathered a threat in the second inning. McCovey led off with a 380-foot drive that Wynn caught against the center field fence. With two out, Bobby Tolan walked and took third on Randy Hundley's single. Sutton retired Strom on a grounder for the third out.

Pomona Valley All-Star Game South Stars win, 6-3

By CRAIG TRAVIS

There was a demonstration in Chino Friday night.

For the second time this week the South held off rallies and marched on North all star athletic teams.

Nogales High's Sam Perez singled home the first of three eight-inning runs, breaking a 3-3 deadlock, to pace the South All-Stars to a 6-3 victory over the North All-Stars in the Pomona Valley Baseball Classic Friday night at Chino High.

Earlier in the week, the South prevailed over the North in basketball, 130-109.

Nogales' John Ekman opened the eighth with a walk, advanced to second on an errant pick-off attempt by losing pitcher Matt Barrow, and winning pitcher Brent Jetton followed with a walk.

Perez then blistered a letter-high fastball to left field to drive in Ekman and give the hosts a 4-3 advantage. Robbie Franklin, Garey High's lone All-Star representative, followed suit with a lined single to left with Jetton scoring on the hit. Moments later, Chaffey's Marty Davis drew a bases loaded walk to account for the final run of the inning.

Perez, the Nogales third baseman, wound up three-for-four. He scored twice, stole a base and drove in a run. For his efforts, the South star was named Most Valuable Player.

Franklin enjoyed a fine outing going two-for-two with a walk, scoring fly and two RBI's.

Jetton hurled the final three frames for the winners, allowing an unearned run, one hit, while striking out four and walking one.

The game was seen saw through seven frames with each team enjoying a leadership role.

The South took a 1-0 second inning lead off starter Brian Harrison (Charter Oak), who went three innings allowing one earned run on three hits while striking out three, on a triple by Perez and a wild pitch.

The North countered with two unearned tallies in the third off South hurler Mike Coppess (Chino) on Tim Helton's (Claremont) bunt single, an error, back-to-back walks — to force across a run — and a ground out.

Coppess went three innings allowing one hit and fanned two.

The South caught the Yankees in the sixth on Jetton's double, a single by Perez and Franklin's scoring fly off Pomona High righthander Mike Forsyth.

The Red Devil red head allowed just two hits in three innings work while his counterpart Keith Munde (Chino), the pitching star of the game, hurled three innings of one hit ball and whiffed six.

The South went ahead 3-2, off Barrow, in the seventh as Ron Gomez (Nogales) singled, worked his way to third and scored on a wild pitch.

The North tied the game in the eighth (3-3) with an unearned tally as Jerry Osborne reached base via a misjudged double to left and scored when first baseman Jay Rogina booted Wally Pitts grounder.

The Mr. Hustle award went to Joe Bruno, South centerfielder, who threw a runner out at the plate in the fourth inning. Pitts had been hit by a pitch and sacrificed to second. John Pignotti (Damien) singled to center and Bruno (Chaffey) fired a strike to catcher Marty Davis (Chaffey) to nail Pitts.

The South takes the lead in the annual series 2-1 while Nogales' Mike Cook and Montclair's Tom McFadden were the winning coaches.

Sun signs Don Shy

Veteran pro running back Don Shy, who prepped at Ganesha High before his collegiate playing days at Mt. San Antonio College and San Diego State, has signed a contract with the Southern California Sun of the World Football League.

Coach Tom Fears expects Shy to fill the fullback position in the Sun backfield.

Shy played for three National Football League teams over the past few years. First, with the Pittsburgh Steelers and later with the Chicago Bears and the Fears coached New Orleans Saints.

Shy was a track and football star at Ganesha and MSAC, where he still holds high hurdles records.

Like his older brother Les, he concentrated on football after leaving the valley. While Les was enjoying fine seasons at Long Beach State Don had the same luck at San Diego in the mid-1960s.

Les played for the Dallas Cowboys, New York Giants and the Cincinnati Bengals in the NFL. He is currently a salesman for a medical supplies company in Los Angeles.

Pomona Post 30 rallies to defeat Covina, 6-2

By MARK GRIP
PB Correspondent

Pomona Post 30 exploded for four runs with two outs in the sixth inning breaking a 2-2 deadlock and going to beat District 18 foe Covina, 6-2, Friday night at Ralph Welch Park in Pomona.

Pomona (3-2, 12-9) also had strong pitching from Dan Ross and Joe Jones. The duo combined to allow only four hits and two runs, both of which were unearned.

Ross started the game for Post 30 and went five complete innings before giving way to Jones who got the win in relief. Ross struck out five, walked five and was the victim of the two unearned runs. Jones walked only two and fanned one in improving his record of 3-3.

After two were out in the sixth, Jones helped his own cause with a rally-inning single to left. John Souza followed with a single and a walk to Keith Glover loaded the bases. Mike Keegan and Mike Wooten followed by walking to a force home two runs. Dave LaHar finished the fireworks with a single to center to score two more runs and ice the victory.

Post 30 opened scoring with an unearned run in the home half of the first. Souza led off by reaching second base on an error and scored on Glover's hit-and-run, bloop double to right.

Covina scored its first unearned marker of the game in the second on Doug LaValley's ground out to second base.

Pomona came back in its half of the inning scoring a solo run to take a 2-1 lead. Chris Davis led off with a single and stole second. John Souza followed with a single to drive home Davis with the go-ahead run.

Covina scored in its fifth with another unearned tally, without a hit. LaValley scored the tying run on a passed ball charged to Mike Wooten.

Losing pitcher Rick Berndt led his team in the hit department going two-for-three.

Souza (2-5) and Dale Coleman (2-4) led Pomona with two hits each.

The two teams will square off today at 2 p.m. at Mt. San Antonio College.

San Dimas wins one

The San Dimas Blue Thoroughbred team won its first game of the season after seven losses when pitcher Harry Brown stymied host La Verne Legion Post 330 on four hits for a 6-3 victory Friday afternoon.

Brown fanned nine batters and walked six as all of La Verne's runs were unearned.

Starter Gary Zakem pitched five strong innings for Post 330. He struck out five and allowed just a hit and two walks and left with a 1-0 lead.

But when reliever Curt Burkhardt came on in the top of the sixth inning, Dave Enos of San Dimas greeted him with a double and scored on a Rick Hertel single. The Thoroughbred squad scored three more times in the inning and was finally retired when La Verne centerfielder Jimmy Richards cut down Denny Miller trying to score.

La Verne (9-4-1) will host Claremont Post 78 in a 2 p.m. league game today at Bonita High.

San Dimas A Thoroughbred team was also victorious Friday night, 11-3 over Bassett. Rick Ortega picked up the pitching win and went four-for-four at the plate with two doubles and four runs batted in. Teammate Robert Alexander added a triple and two singles while driving home two. San Dimas (7-3) A will play Arcadia at County Park tonight at 7 p.m.

Sports Babashoff sets world record

NEW YORK (AP)—The Amateur Athlete Union announced Friday it has received no firm assurances from Soviet sports authorities that they would reinstate the original terms of their contract for a United States-Russian track meet originally scheduled for July 4-5 in Kiev, Russia, and have arranged a series of substitute competitions in Europe.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The bankrupt Pittsburgh Penguins received court approval Friday to borrow up to $700,000 to keep the franchise operating here.

General Manager Jack Button, the court-appointed receiver, made the request of U.S. District Court Judge Hubert I. Teitelbaum, but said he does not yet have a lender.

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—Jamaica's Don Quarrie staked his claim for title of the world's fastest human Friday when he withstood a strong challenge to defeat Steve Williams and win the 100-meter dash at the National Amateur Athletic Union track championships Friday at the University of Oregon.

The 5-foot-8, 155-pound Quarrie, a graduate of the University of Southern California, won his first major race in the shortest of the dashes, halting Williams' winning streak after two victories in this meet. Quarrie's time was 10.16 seconds. Williams was timed in at 10.21.

PARIS (AP)—Italy and France were tied 1-1 Friday after the first day of play in the European Zone B Davis Cup tennis semifinals.

Francois Jauffret of France beat Adriano Panatta of Italy 6-1, 6-4, 8-6 in a two-hour match, then Corrado Barazzutti evened the best-of-five series with a 4-6, 6-0, 6-1, 6-3 triumph over Frenchman Patrice Dominguez.

Area girls rank high

LOS ALAMOS, N.M.—Jenny Stary of Claremont High and Angela Wind of Ontario Christian held down eighth and 14th place respectively after the first of two days of competition at the National Junior Women's AAU Pentathlon Championships here Friday.

Stary used personal bests of 16.0 seconds in the 100 meter hurdles and 34 feet, 11 1/2 inches in the shot put to amass 2080 points in Friday's three events. She also recorded a 5-1 1/4 in the high jump.

Wind totaled 1789 points through the first three events, including a lifetime best of 15.5 in the hurdles.

The leader in the junior division after Friday's competition was Nancy King of Nebraska, with 2219 points. American record holder Jane Frederick of Goleta leads the senior division with 2833 points.

Jack Nicklaus, the Masters champion who so desperately wants to win this one and keep alive his improbable dream of a one-year sweep of all the world's major titles, could manage only a 70 and was seven shots back at even-par 142.

The rest of the game's glamor names were strung out well behind him.

Palmer, the 45-year-old giant who still draws the game's largest, most loyal galleries, blew to a 75 and 144. All his trouble—and it was such familiar trouble—was concentrated in a few holes early in the round when the heat was at its worst.

Both swimmers had already qualified for the team which will visit Cali, Columbia July 18-27 for the world swimming championships.

Tim Shaw, the 17-year-old Long Beach High School star, set a world mark in the men's 400-meter freestyle on Thursday with a time of 3:53.95. He already had qualified for the team with a second place finish in the 200-meter freestyle on Wednesday.

Shaw on Friday upset the 200-meter backstroke field, turning in a 2:05.44 effort in an event he seldom enters.

Behind at the 100 meter mark, Shaw took the lead on the home stretch and finished well ahead of the Dallas Swim Club's Paul Hove, who clocked 2:06.19 and qualified for the championship team.

Shaw said: "I was pretty well dead at the finish. I don't swim the 200 backstroke very much in workouts. I think I've only gone about 2,000 meters of backstroke this year in practice."

Asked if she was counting on a gold medal in the 400 in the upcoming world championships in Columbia, the swimmer

Miss Babashoff, representing the Mission Viejo Nadadores, allowed Fresno's Heather Greenwood to set the pace in early stages of the race, then closely followed New Jersey's Kathy Hedy after Miss Greenwood, 17, faded.

Babashoff overtook Hedy about 5 meters from the finish. The New Jersey swimmer was also under the listed world mark, clocking 4:15.57.

"I was aware of Hedy over in lane three and saw what she was doing," the victor said. "I knew I would have to finish strongly to win the race."

LONG POND, Pa. (AP)—Bobby Unser and Gordon Johncock showed themselves ready to compete today for the pole position in the June 29 Pocono 500, and A.J. Foyt had a lot of people worried.

Foyt appeared confident, despite practice speeds about four miles an hour slower than pacesetters Unser and Johncock.

"Foyt is sandbagging. He'll smoke everybody tomorrow," a rival driver said after practice Friday.

Foyt, pole winner in the two other 500-mile Indianapolis-style races this season, parked his Coyote after a few laps at 178 m.p.h., and headed for a horse race Friday.

Unser, meanwhile, posted the fastest practice speed so far this week at the 2 1/2-mile Pocono International Raceway tri-oval with a 182.334 m.p.h. clocking. Johncock's best was 182.038 m.p.h.

Unser won the pole here last year with a 182.500 m.p.h. four-lap average, and he appeared to have solved mechanical troubles which cost him a transmission and a $35,000 engine Thursday.

Johncock's teammate, Wally Dallenbach, and Mike Mosley were the only other drivers above the 180 m.p.h. barrier. Of the six fastest machines at Indianapolis last month, Tom Sneva was the only driver not among the top six in practice here.

Preview is slated at Los Al

LOS ALAMITOS — A preview of next month's $50,000-added Vessels Maturity could be in store tonight at Los Alamitos when three horses eligible to that rich 4-year-old event and two others that may be supplemented to it meet in the $10,000 Barbra B. Invitational Handicap.

The three Maturity nominees clashing in the 400-yard Barbra B. are Pass Over, Coca's Kid and The Good Thief while the two supplementary candidates are Wanta Go and Smooth Me. Completing the seven-horse Barbra B. field are Parrfame and Jet Creek.

Pass Over will carry highweight of 125 pounds in the 19th running of the Barbra B. although the first since 1971. The nation's champion filly as both a 2-year-old and 3-year-old, Pass Over is winless in nine races on the local racing strip. Her last triumph came last August in the $438,000 All-American Derby at Ruidoso but that victory, combined with several major stakes wins as a freshman, made her the fifth richest money-winner in quarter horse racing history with more than $450,000.

Since coming to the West Coast, Pass Over's best performances have come in the $50,000 Champion of Champions when she finished but a neck off Don Guerro and Timeto Thinkrich and in her last outing when she battled Time to Think rich to the wire before losing a narrow decision in a speedy 19.89 for 400 yards in the Chicado V. earlier this month. Jerry Nicodemus will return to Los Al to handle Pass Over.

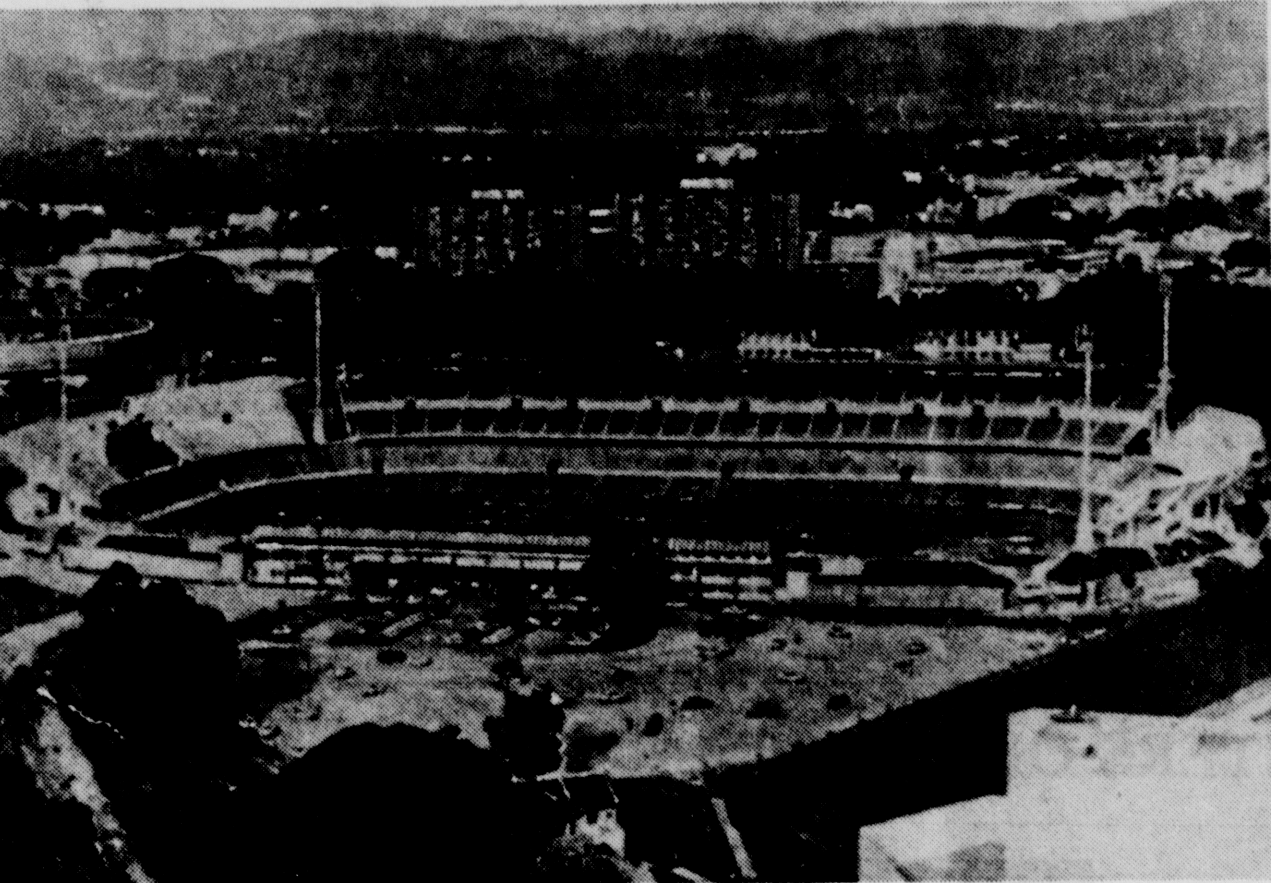

Coca's Kid makes her second appearance of the summer after an impressive return to racing early this month.

Leos' cagers planning tour

LA VERNE — Members of the La Verne College basketball team are raising money for a Scandinavian tour Aug. 28 through Sept. 22, announced Art Bias, basketball coach.

Traveling through Denmark, Sweden, Norway and Finland, the team is scheduled to play 13 games and hold seven basketball clinics for native youths. Educational tours have also been set up for team members, who will be traveling by ship, train, plane and bus.

Each of the 17 to 20 college students is responsible for obtaining his own expenses — about $1,300 per person. The Scandinavian governments have offered

SITE OF FIGHT — An aerial shot shows the Kuala Lumpur Stadium which will be the scene of the heavyweight title fight on June 30 between Muhammad Ali and Joe Bugner.

It's a holy war for Ali

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — World heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali Friday reclassified his title fight with British challenger Joe Bugner from a sports event to a holy war.

"I have extra power. I went to the National Mosque today and prayed with all the Muslims so now I have double power, power that a non-Muslim cannot get," Ali told newsmen after working out at Negara Stadium.

"It's going to be rather difficult for him to win under these circumstances and conditions which make it a holy war rather than a sports event... whenever God—Allah—steps in it's impossible for the enemy to be victorious."

Malaysia is a Muslim nation. Ali appears to have gained an immense following among the Malay majority, who are mostly Muslims although his Black Muslim sect, the nation of Islam, is not linked with the mainstream of the religion.

"When all the Muslims of the world pray for Muhammad Ali, I have a supreme power that I myself am surprised at when I start boxing... so what can Joe Bugner call on? Who does he pray to? How many pray for him? What cause has he got to fight for?"

Bugner did some roadwork Friday, but no gym training. He went sightseeing. Bugner said he would offer Ali a return match if he loses on July 1. Ali rejected the idea.

"If Joe Bugner dreamed he beat Muhammad Ali, he should wake up and apologize. I will beat him so convincingly that no one will want to see a rematch.

After I'm finished with Bugner, he will not rate as a contender... so therefore I cannot promise him a return," Ali said.

Ali shadow boxed, skipped rope and sparred for two rounds each with Jimmy Ellis and Levi Forte Friday. The champion never went on the attack, using instead his rope-adapted defensive style. Ellis and Forte found few openings and the ringwork was generally lackluster.

Ali said he was not pushing himself to the limit in training for Bugner who, at 25, is eight years younger.

"I don't train hard for every fight. Some contenders are better than others. For the good contenders, I train harder. For those who are better than better, I train harder and harder. For those who are better than better than better, I train harder and harder and harder. Like when I fight Joe Frazier in about three months.

"I didn't work too hard for Ron Lyle and I didn't for Chuck Wepner. I am not working that hard—a little harder—for Joe Bugner. But I am going to have to go all out for Joe Frazier..."

After Frazier, in about five months, I plan to fight George Foreman. So that is a miracle. In one year Wepner, Lyle, Bugner, Frazier, Foreman. Unbelievable: five men in one year which makes me the saviour, the resurrector of the boxing world..."

NHL is apparently off TV networks

NEW YORK (AP) — Faint hopes that the National Hockey League would land a new national TV contract for next season are even dimmer now after the NHL meetings this week in Montreal.

NBC, which refused to renew the NHL's regular-season contract, has received no reply to proposal that would insure the league of limited exposure during the 1976 Stanley Cup playoffs.

The result is that the NHL now is off national TV after more than five seasons with CBS and NBC.

Reportedly the NBC post-season offer is out. The NHL's Board of Governors indicated that it would turn it down if it came before them in Montreal.

It was not acted upon for two reasons, according to one TV executive who sat in on the meetings. Primarily, he said, "It was a matter of pride, they felt they were getting scraps," he said, "and also just a small package of post-season games would not be financially rewarding enough for the effort."

The NHL's regular and post-season agreement with NBC over the past three years paid each of the 18 teams about $185,000 annually and a contract limited to Stanley Cup games would reduce that to about $50,000 per team, if that.

The league's governors just weren't taking.

They felt that independent agreements and an independent network made up of interested league cities during the playoffs would also provide that kind of money.

Despite heavy promotion by NBC, and CBS when it had the contract, hockey never achieved the TV popularity on a national basis that football, baseball and basketball enjoy.

Many stations in the south, southwest and west refused to take the NBC hockey games, although they were affiliates of that network. The sport enjoyed TV success mainly in cities where there was an NHL franchise and even that was only partially true.

TV executives still chuckle when NBC's misfortunes in Atlanta are mentioned. Although the city had an NHL franchise, the network's TV affiliate said no to the NBC-NHL package.

Hockey does enjoy TV prosperity in some cities in the United States and throughout Canada. Boston is the best example where WSBK-TV, Channel 38, televises a minimum of 75 Boston Bruins' games each season. During both seasons when the Bruins won the Stanley Cup, the figures were closer to 100 games.

Channel 38's success with hockey eventually helped the station land rights to more than 100 Boston Red Sox games this season.

Philadelphia is another hockey hotbed for television. Thirty-six of the Stanley Cup champion Philadelphia Flyers road games will be televised on home TV next season.

And an additional 30 home games will be televised on pay cable TV to South Philadelphia, Allentown and possibly into New Jersey.

Basketball camp begins at Azusa

Azusa Pacific's All-American Basketball Camp is now accepting registrations for both week-long sessions July 13-18 (grades 4-6) and July 20-25 (grades 7-11) to be held on the Azusa Pacific College campus.

The camp will provide young players with instruction and competition during the summer off-season and will feature a staff of high school, junior high school and college coaches known for their ability to teach youngsters the fundamentals and strategies of the game.

Leading the way is Azusa Pacific's basketball coach, Cliff Hamlow, who over a twenty year coaching career has established a record of 408-214, ranking 11th best in the nation among active coaches. His ability to teach the defensive game is extraordinary.

Registration is open and tuition is $95 for live-in campers and $65 for day campers. For more information call Cliff Hamlow, Azusa Pacific College, (213) 969-3434, Ext. 223 or 225.

Senior Lifesaving classes will also be taught at 6 p.m. for a fee of $16.

Also offered are one hour sessions in Intermediate, Swimmers, and a Competitive Stroke class at a cost of $14 per session, in addition to the half hour sessions. Red Cross cards will be issued to those who pass the course.

Please call Debbie Hoehn at 626-8511, Ext. 2247 for further information and reservations.

Hollypark's Gold Cup Top horses battle

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Stardust Mel and Ancient Title could earn thoroughbred horse racing's handicap honors for the year and they'll be going head to head in the Hollywood Gold Cup today, a $150,000 race at 1 1/4 miles.

Such great runners as Seabiscuit, Citation, Swaps, Round Table, Gallant Man and Native Diver have won the Gold Cup in its 35 previous runnings.

This time it's Stardust Mel, carrying 126, and Ancient Title, 125, vying with six others for the $90,000 top prize.

On Sunday it will be the $55,800 Wilshire Handicap for fillies and mares with Susan's Girl seeking to push her winnings over the $1 million mark. There is $33,300 to the winner and $10,000 for second. Either will boost the mare into the millionaire category.

Trainer Charlie Whittingham, already a Hall of Famer, goes after his fifth consecutive Gold Cup. In addition to Stardust Mel, Whittingham will saddle El Tarta and La Zanzara.

Stardust Mel and El Tarta, both owned by Marjorie Everett, will be coupled in the betting while Aaron U. Jones' La Zanzara will be running independently.

Stardust Mel, a 4-year-old son of Wallet Lifter, won both the Strub Stakes and the Santa Anita Handicap, and was named the outstanding runner at the Santa Anita meeting.

Mrs. Ethel B. Kirkland's Ancient Title won the Strub a year ago and also was second to Tree of Knowledge in the Gold Cup of 1974.

Barclay Joy, pulled a 35-1 surprise in the turf handicap and could be the surprise this time although the Irish-bred has only run on the dirt track twice in Southern California.

In post position order, the field will have Barclay Joy, 114, El Tarta, 115, Dancing Papa, 114, Ga Hai, 114, Ancient Title, 125, La Zanzara, 113, Big Band, 115, and Stardust Mel, 126.

Howard Grant gets the ride on Stardust Mel because Bill Shoemaker still sits out a five-day suspension. Laffit-Pincay will be aboard Ancient Title.

Stardust Mel coupled with El Tarta as the Everett entry will be expected to go off as the betting favorite. Stardust Mel has earned $277,250 in purses this year.

All-America game tonight

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — The 15th annual Coaches All-America football game officially launches the 1975 grid war tonight and East Coach Steve Sloan has promised a little intrigue by installing a trick play.

"We're going to put in a little trick play for the East but we did it in the dark of night... we didn't want any of those West spies to catch it," Sloan said. "It will be a legal trick play."

Whether Sloan is trying a little psychological warfare or actually adding a little spicy razzle dazzle is up for speculation but the game against West Coach Grant Teaff's team promises to be a crowd pleaser.

Some 40,000 are expected in Jones Stadium for the 6 p.m. PDT kickoff. The game will be nationally televised.

The West is a slight favorite, based on its 8-6 overall record and most of the backing from the crowd.

There will be the usual allstar rules—no blitzing of linebackers and zone defenses in the secondary.

Sloan, the new Texas Tech coach, will be making his debut in the stadium where he fields his first Red Raider team this fall and has two excellent quarterbacks to assist him.

He can call on Mike Frankowiak, a 6-foot-3, 220-pounder from Central Michigan who led the Chippewas to the NCAA Division II title, or Fred Solomon, who runs a 4.4 in the 40 and accounted for 35 touchdowns in his career at Tampa.

Frankowiak also does the punting and is the kicking specialist.

Running backs Woody Thompson of Miami, Louis Carter of Maryland and Harold Henson of Ohio State give the East some overland firepower. Jimmy Robinson of Georgia Tech, Marshall Mills of West Virginia and Darius McCarthy of South Carolina State are the top receivers.

Volleyball club opens campaign

LOS ANGELES — For the first time in any professional sport, women will participate with men when the Los Angeles Stars, of the newly-formed International Pro-Volleyball Association, open their home season against the Santa Barbara Spikers tonight 8 p.m. at the Santa Monica City College Gym.

Two outstanding female stars on the team are Sharon Jardine, 5'6", from Long Beach State University, member of the U.S. Olympic teams 1964-68, all-American four times and participated in the Pan American games in 67 and '71, and Linda Fernandez on the 1968 Olympic team and member of the University of Hawaii NCAA runners-up 1975, stands 5'7" and hails from Hawaii.

Stars are headed by player-coach Jon Stanley, a 6'6" graduate of Brigham Young University, all-American ten times, on the Olympic team 1968-1972 and coach of the United States Women's team 1969-70 and 1971.

Stanley and the Stars will take on "The Sorcerer" Stanislaw Gosciniak, named the outstanding player at last year's World Games in Mexico City, is from Poland and is the Spikers' setter.

David L. Wolper, President of the IVA and owner of the L.A. franchise, conceived the idea of forming the league after the 1972 Olympic games when he produced the award-winning film, "Visions of Eight." Wolper was so enthused with the volleyball competition. He envisioned the American sports enthusiast would overwhelmingly take to the exciting sport (on a spike, the ball travels at the rate of ninety miles per hour).

The Stars' schedule is as follows: July 5: San Diego (Santa Monica City College Gym); July 16: Southern California (El Camino College Gym); July 23: El Paso (El Camino College Gym); July 30: Southern California (El Camino College Gym); August 1: Santa Barbara (El Camino College Gym); August 10: Santa Barbara (Santa Monica City College Gym); August 24: Southern California (Santa Monica City College Gym). Weekday games start at 7:30 P.M. and weekends at 8:00 P.M. Tickets are on sale now at the Stars' office, 12121 Wilshire Boulevard, Suite No. 111, Los Angeles 90025. Phone reservations can be made by calling (213) 826-4591.

Guadalajara faces Poland in soccer

LOS ANGELES — Poland, the surprise team of the 1974 World Cup, meets Mexican Cup champion contender Universidad de Guadalajara at 3 p.m. Sunday, June 29 at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Poland was the third place finisher in the 1974 World Cup behind Germany and Holland. The Poles lost their shot at the title game by losing, 1-0, to Germany on a rain-soaked field.

The Polish team rose to world prominence behind the goal scoring efforts of Lato whose seven goals made him the top scorer in the 1974 World Cup ahead of teammate Szarmach with five and Holland's super star, Johann Cruyff, with three.

Poland and Universidad de Guadalajara have each made one appearance in Los Angeles

Poland beat the Mexican national team, 1-0, before a crowd of 20,000 at the Coliseum in 1973. The match attracted a gross gate of $100,000. Universidad de Guadalajara made its first appearance outside of Mexico Jan. 26 of this year against world club champion Independiente of Argentina at the Coliseum. The Mexican team lost a close match to the world champion, 2-1, before 15,545 fans.

Universidad de Guadalajara's lineup features a mixture of the finest of Mexico, including national team goalie Nacho Calderon, and top Brazilian stars such as Nene, Eusebio, Jair and Roberto. The mixture has given the team the most explosive and wide open offense in Mexican soccer.

The game is sponsored by the California State Soccer Association. South

East Princess Tina Estupinian, East Queen Valerie Berdin, Hubbard, West Queen Janet Menager and West Princess Janice Coalson.

All-Star court selected

GLENDORA — The Glendora Rotary Club selected East Queen Valerie Berdin of La Puente High School and West Queen Janet Menager of Temple City High to represent the all-star football teams in the club's 10th annual game at Citrus College, Friday, July 11, for the East vs. West San Gabriel Valley charity clash of high school star athletes.

Elected to serve with Miss Berdin in support of the East all-stars was Claremont High's Tina Estupinian. Miss Janice Coalson of Sierra Vista High was elected to assist West Queen Janet Menager. Both assistants were crowned Princesses in the annual contest.

Queen Berdin was La Puente's Homecoming Queen last season, she was junior class President, Girls' State Representative and a former homecoming princess. She has received three different scholarships totaling $2,050, and is planning to continue her studies at Loyola's Marymount College with the goal of a master's degree in education. She is the eldest of five children: brothers Tim (16), Kevin (12) and Erik (8), and sister Nanette (9). The 17-year-old queen is the daughter of Frank and Kathryn Berdin of La Puente.

Queen Janet Menager was Temple City's Girls State Representative, Gold Seal Bearer, junior-senior class president, homecoming princess, flag girl captain, and she was the winner of two scholarships. She is presently employed as a dental assistant and plans to continue her studies in dental hygiene at Pasadena City College. The 17-year-old senior is the daughter of Mrs. Doris Menager.

East Princess Tina Estupinian was Claremont's homecoming queen, yearbook editor and member of the school's chamber singers. She was named outstanding teenager of America for '74-75, and was second runner-up in the Miss Pomona Valley Pageant. The daughter of Rafael and Janet Estupinian, the 18-year-old lass intends to become a bilingual teacher, and is considering attending either Citrus College or Cal Poly Pomona. Mr. Estupinian is the principal of Fremont Jr. High

JOHNNY WONDER

The dalmatian is a large, white-spotted dog that looks like a pointer. Dalmatians are popularly known as fire dogs and are often found today as pets of firemen at fire stations. Another name for the dalmatian is the coach dog. These dogs were once used to run along with horse-drawn coaches to protect them from highwaymen. At the end of the journey they stood guard over the coach. When early-time firemen began using horses to pull their fire engines, they adopted the dalmatian as a companion to run along with the fire horses. Later, when fire engines became motorized, the dalmatian was still kept as a mascot. Dalmatians aren't born with their spots. Dalmatian puppies are pure white when they are born. The black or brown spots appear after about three weeks. Dalmatians were named for Dalmatia, a district in Yugoslavia, where they were once raised as watchdogs. A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1336 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

What's going on around here

CONTRACT GIVEN — The General Dynamics plant in Pomona has been awarded a $2.9 million contract from the Naval Sea Systems Command to conduct a missile training and production program, reported Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist.

IT'S A GASSER — The California Public Utilities Commission has granted Southern California Gas Co. authority to increase rates by $25 million to partially offset the higher price of gas the utility must pay to its supplier, El Paso Natural Gas.

In a novel approach, the utility was directed to pass along part of the increase to residential customers for 90 days only. During this three month period, all classes of customers will realize a 33-cent per term increase.

Then on Sept. 16, the residential increase will be lifted and the utilities commission will spread the difference among the gas company's other customers.

FOR MENTALLY HANDICAPPED — Ontario's Recreation and Chaffey College's Adult Education departments are sponsoring a recreation program for mentally handicapped adults.

The group meets each Tuesday from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Colony Park, 1240 W. Fourth St. Sessions will continue through Aug. 12. Planned activities include a hotdog dinner on July 22 and a party on Aug. 12.

Weekly activities will include simple arts and crafts projects, table games and refreshments. Participants will be asked for a 25 cent donation each week. They will also be invited to bring records and musical instruments to share.

SIERRA OFFICER — Ted Tyzyna of Claremont has been elected regional vice president of the Sierra Club for Southern California. He will be responsible for coordinating the organization's conservation efforts in a 12-county area.

Tyzyna is president of the Center for California Public Affairs which is affiliated with the Claremont Colleges.

MINNESOTA PICNIC — Former residents of Worthington, Minn., will hold their annual picnic July 13 at the Pearson Park in Anaheim.

The program will be from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Coffee and ice cream will be provided.

Indians spurn plea to stage raid on train

PUYALLUP, Wash. (AP) — The Puyallup Indian Tribe has declined an offer from the Bicentennial Wagon Train to dress in warrior garb and stage an attack on the covered wagons.

Tribal Chairwoman Ramona Bennett dismissed the invitation to attack the train, enroute to Valley Forge, Pa., to celebrate the nation's 200th birthday, as a ridiculous insult to the Indian community.

'Sunset Jambo '75'

... what scouting
is all about
(Story on page 4)

Doc Peirsol

It happened in Pomona

In 1875, before the subdividers went into their act, what is today Pomona consisted of a general store owned by George Egan, a post office, an express office, a Methodist church, one drug store and a few homes. But growth was inevitable. Only eighteen short years later, in 1893, the residents of this thriving community were bragging about their first Pomona High School graduate, a Miss Edith Youngs, and from then on our educational progress was assured. There were two high school graduates in 1894 and three in 1895.

But it was during the next decade that Pomona really came into its own. In fact, community growth was so phenomenal that by 1904 the editor of The Pomona Daily Review was able to proudly report: "There were eleven interments in Pomona Cemetery during October."

And by 1904 we had also arrived at that point in community well-being where we were even able to afford a bit of culture. So we imported John Philip Sousa's band for a special concert—a rather expensive undertaking since at the time Sousa was paying his musicians from $6 to as high as $17 a day plus expenses.

While we are on the subject of culture, it should also be reported that it was in June 1904 that the editor of The Pomona Daily Review raised the question: "SHOULD ART BE DESECRATED?" At the same time he voiced what was perhaps this community's first protest against racial discrimination. "There is a shoe polish," he wrote, "advertised by a parody of Raphael's Cherubs in theistine Madonna. Two cherubs with absurd wings, stovepipe hats and wide grins are pictured looking over a signboard.—Why doesn't the Ebell protest?"

Nineteen hundred and Four was also the year Pomona gained an international reputation by expelling a grade school student for refusing to salute the American flag. That school board action raised a civil rights controversy that raged for months the length and breadth of these United States.

But perhaps the clinching proof that Pomona finally had arrived at important town status took place on November 22, 1904. The Pomona Daily Review reported the occasion in this fashion:

—Frank Mason, known throughout America as the globe-trotting bootblack, landed in town on the noon train and left a few hours later for Riverside. He has set out on a nation-wide tour to shine shoes in every town of 5,000 or more population in the U.S.A.

Bishop attack is spectacular

Of the vast number of chess games played, only a small number are ideally suited for instructional purposes. It is difficult to find that game which clearly isolates the particular problem or theme one is interested in studying or teaching.

For as we know, reality is almost always more mixed and complex than what we construct in the mind's eye.

However, I have just seen one of those "classic" examples, which are so useful to players of beginner chess. In this game, we observe a queen and two bishops converging on a scarcely protected king position. We see Taimanov (black) in a few moves tear away a crucial protective pawn, force other openings in the pawn covering and then penetrate conclusively.

In Diagram One, we see the result after white has accepted a double pawn sacrifice and black has effected his first counterstroke, namely bishop (at QB1) captures white's KRP (1... BxKRP). Now White must act immediately, for Taimanov threatens 2...

BxNP1 with terrible consequences.

We can see immediately that white cannot take the "sacrificial" bishop (1... PxB). For there would follow 2... QxP; 3 P-B4 (to block the mate), Q-N5 check; 4 K-R1, B-K7; and devastation (see Diagram Two).

White therefore hurriedly brings over his knight (2... N-K3), black retreats his bishop (2... B-Q2) (threatening 3... Q-R7 mate) and white blocks that attack with 3... P-KN3 (see Diagram Three).

Siladi now has fatal weaknesses on his white squares. After 3... B-N4, 4 Q-QB1, B-K7; 5 KR-K1, B-B6; 6 N-N2, Q-R6, there is no defense. (See Diagram Four).

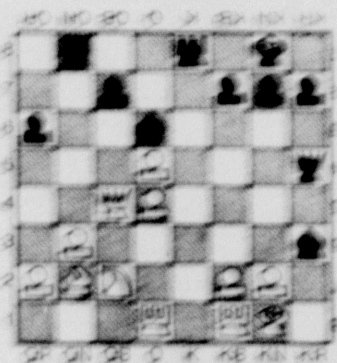

A marvelous bishop reentry from the queen-side.

Ancient meerschaum pipe quite valuable

By Dorothy Hammond

QUESTION: Any information you can give me on this beautiful old pipe will be helpful. I believe it came from Germany, and is handcarved. The detailing is very fine. I would also like to know something about the value of this pipe. F. E. (Pa.)

ANSWER: Your interesting meerschaum pipe is worth about $60. It is made from an opaque white, gray or cream-colored mineral of the soapstone family, known as hydrous magnesium silicate. It derives its name from the German word meaning "sea foam"—meerschaum. This mineral is mined deep below the surface of the earth. Although it is most commonly used for producing fancy pipes—still being made, but not in quantity—it is also used for the making of women's jewelry, chess figures and art pieces. For further reading, I suggest the article "The Magnificent Meerschaum" by Ben Rapaport, found in Volume III of The Antique Trader's Annual of Articles (Box 1090 Dubuque, Iowa).

QUESTION: I have been given an apothecary cabinet which was used from around the turn of the present century until the late 1940s. It is nearly six feet high, four feet wide and twenty-two inches deep. The entire front is composed of over one hundred small drawers, each dovetailed. The lower two rows of drawers are larger than the rest. This cabinet needs cleaning, or perhaps refinishing, as it has been in storage for years. There are also some pharmacists' small tools stored in the drawers.

along with a glass mortar and pestle and several glass measuring cups.

Although I find this piece very interesting, I am unable to put it to any practical usage. Can you give me some idea what such pieces are selling for in my area? Mrs. J. G. (Wash.)

ANSWER: Between $250-$350 in the rough.

Mark Nourse of Troop 410 is thanked for his help by Scout chairman Dan Bocksberger.

Valley scouts putting best foot forward

ON THE COVER

Three scouts from Troop 109 build an open campfire to cook their food. Eric Bocksberger, left, holds the heavy lid to the cooking pot. Steading the pot is Michael Fernandez and lighting the fire is Jesus Quesada. All cooking at Jambo '75 will be over open campfires.

Dennis Sanderson, leader of the Bobcat Patrol in Troop 114, climbs a tower.

Sunset District of Old Baldy Council, Boy Scouts of America, will display the aims of scouting at a "Sunset Jambo '75" in Pomona next weekend.

The event, to involve scouting units in Pomona, Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, Diamond Bar and Walnut, will be held Friday through Sunday on a vacant lot on the southeast corner of Garey and Bonita avenues.

It will be open to the public admission free. It will be the first event of this kind in the district held in a public place.

Old Baldy Council, which serves the area encompassing Pomona Valley east to Fontana, has reorganized from five to two areas. Sunset District serves scouting units west of the San Bernardino County line. The district east of the line is called Sunrise District.

Sam Lopez, publicity representative for Sunset District, explained that jamborees or camporees usually are held in scout camps not readily accessible to the public.

"The reason for holding Sunset Jambo in town," he said, "is so the public can visit and see scouting in action."

The theme of the event will be, "Our Scouting Heritage." Small groups of boys, called patrols, will be competing against each other in four different areas; campsite, cooking, competitive events and pioneering projects.

Events will consist of fun games which revolve around scouting skills.

Scouts will cook over wood fires, starting with all food in a natural, raw state, Lopez said. Campsites will be judged for organizations and general appearance.

Pioneer projects will consist of building with ropes and poles.

The top patrols will get the honor of representing Old Baldy Council in the Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona next September.

Troops will begin arriving at the Jambo site at 5 p.m. Friday. All events will be over by noon Sunday. There will be a campfire Friday night and a Scout's Own Sunday Service.

The Sunset Jambo committee is expecting 60 to 70 patrols of scouts to participate. This means some 500 boys from 11 to 18 are preparing to make the event a memorable one, Lopez said.

Adult volunteers planning the event are Dan Bocksberger, chairman; Mike Lewis, adviser; Ray Sampson, financial; Nate Block, registration; Joe "Kahuana" Price, awards; Denis Coliten, events; John Davis, health and safety; Roy Cooley, sound and electrical; Clay Atwood, food and refreshments; Jack Wilson, physical arrangements; Bill Doss, scout help; and Jean Bocksberger, secretary.

Two scouts, Louis Boyd of Troop 109 and Mark Nourse of Troop 410 are assisting with senior patrol leaders and health and safety.

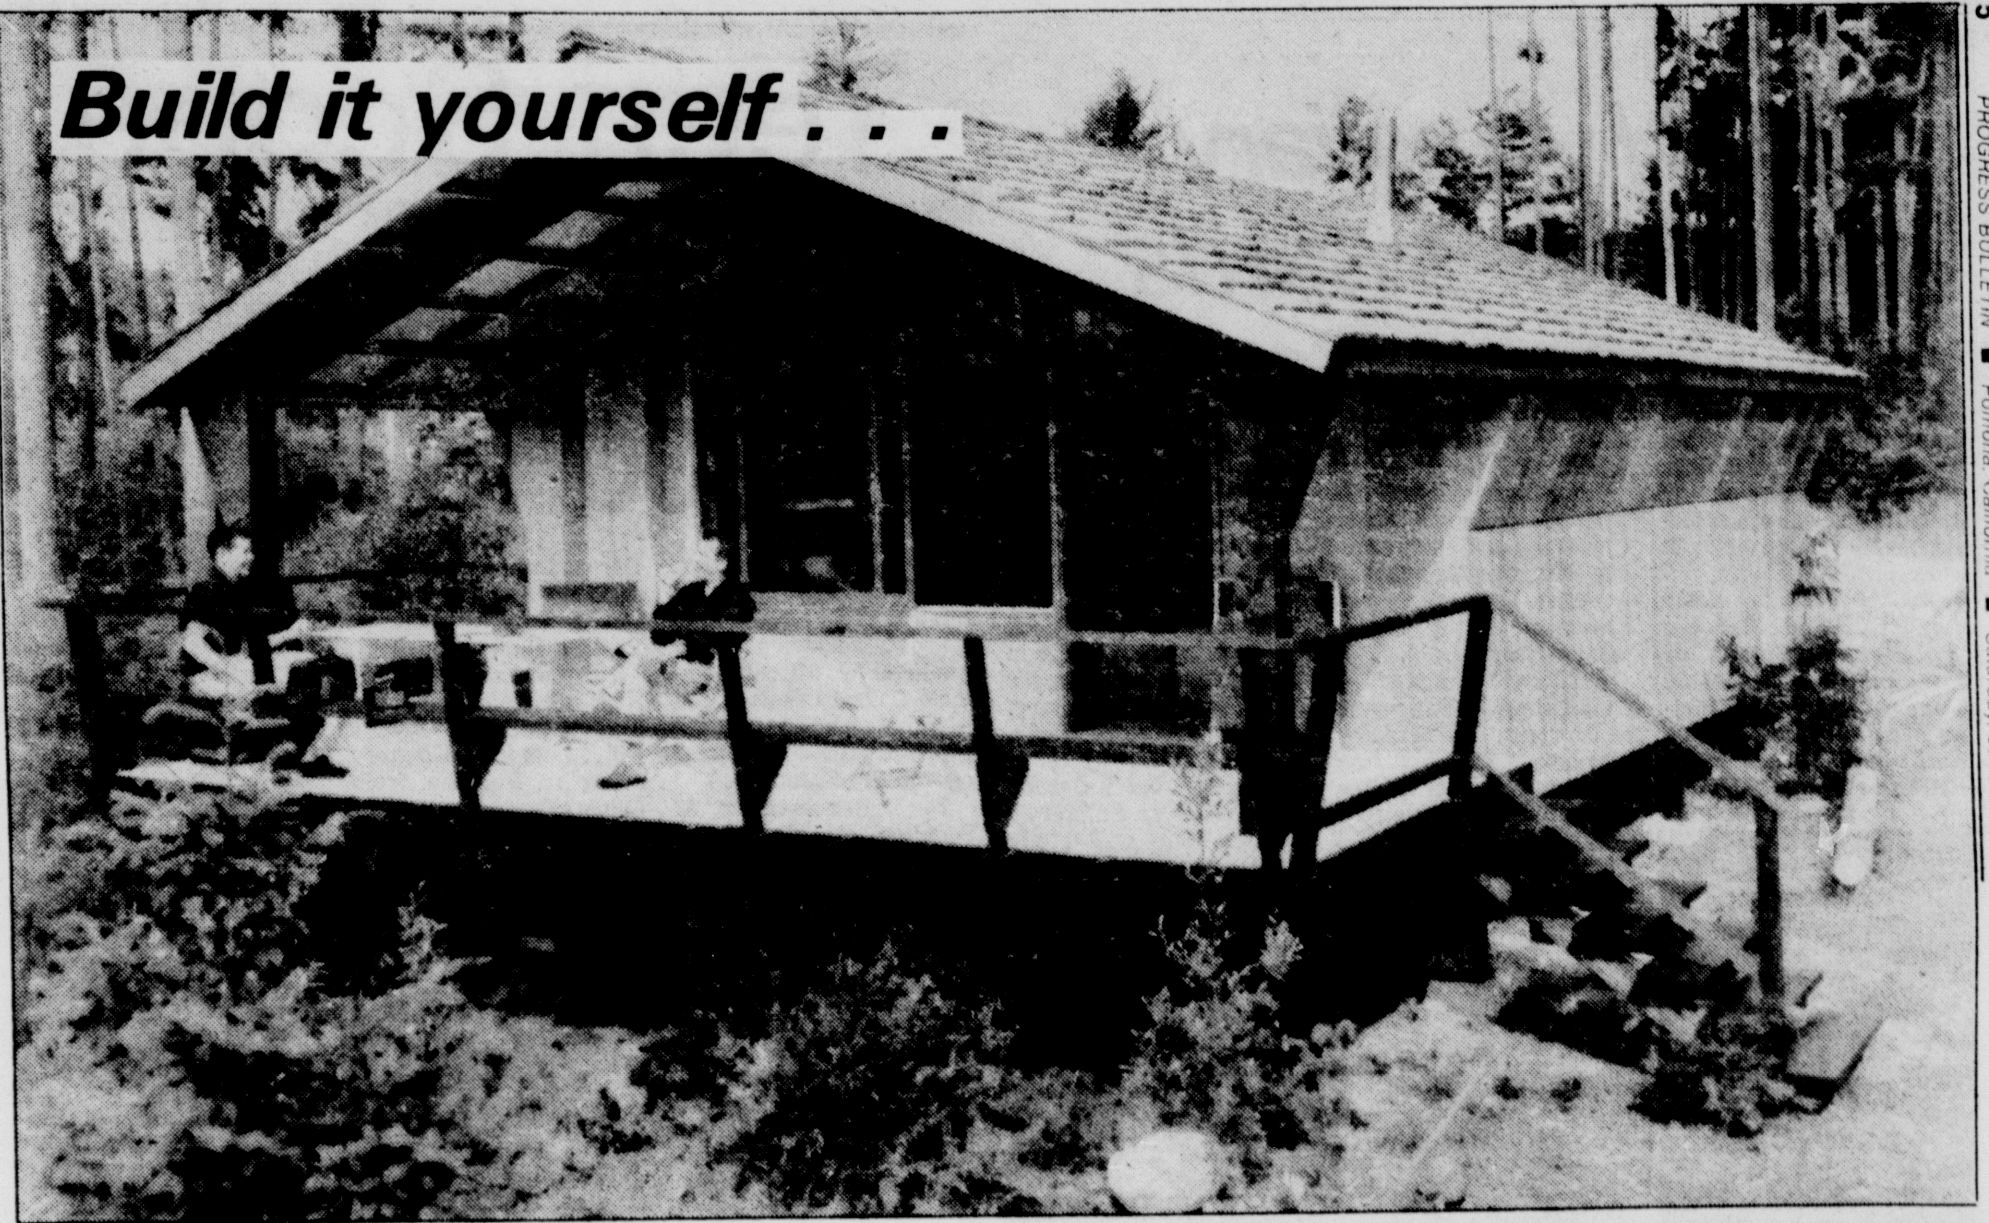

Scout Stacy Smith, scribe for Troop 116, checks his pack.

Build it yourself . . .

Leisure life headquarters

By STEVE ELLINGSON

If you own a small piece of resort property but still believe you can't afford to build on it, read on. For, with a week's time, a friend's help and approximately $2,000, you can build a frame cabin like the one shown here.

Secret of the cabin's success is its rigid frame which provides a relatively wide, clear span (up to 52 feet) with no interior posts.

Rather than using conventional plate-and-stud walls with roof rafters, the rigid frame system depends on the principle of the arch.

The four pieces of lumber that form the arch are locked together rigidly with plywood gusset plates; the member across the base of the arch absorbs the outward thrust developed by it and also acts as a floor joist. Similarly, the plywood on the walls acts as both siding and sheathing to keep wind out, and at the same time withstands structural stress.

If you want to make the cabin larger to accommodate weekend guests or use it as a retirement home, just add a few more frames. Interior walls can be replaced with different woods as your needs change. It has a wide front deck with large expanses of glass on both end walls, and can easily be finished out later to become a building suitable for year-around use. The basic structure is 20' by 24' with a covered deck six feet deep.

To obtain the easy-to-follow Resort Cabin Plan No. 370, send $2.25 (includes postage & handling). If airmail is desired, send $2.50 by cash, check or money order to:

PATRICK RIGGANS

Riggans gets UCB 76 award

Patrick Riggans, a June graduate of Pomona High School, is one of five students in the state to receive $2,000 United California Bank scholarships.

In announcing Riggans' selection, Pomona Main Office manager Frank T. Carr said Riggans will be given part-time employment at the branch.

Riggans is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Riggans of 1035 E. La Verne Ave., Pomona. He is a Pomona High Letterman. He plans a career in business management.

Carr said a practical feature of the UCB scholarship program is the business experience Riggans will receive while working at UCB.

Pomona is one of five cities participating in the UCB scholarship program. The others are San Jose, Chico, Turlock and Riverside.

The UCB scholarship program started in 1972. It is a $100,000 scholarship-employment program sponsored by the bank for minority students in California. Five students have been selected to receive scholarships and training each year.

Paul Hudson of Damien High School, Glenn Krinsky of Claremont High School and Frank Mizuno of Upland High School took the respective first, second and third place honors in the Gemco Scholarship Competition recently.

Those not pictured above did not submit photographs to the Progress-Bulletin.

Hudson, the oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hudson of Glendora, won $1,500 for taking first place. Krinsky, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Krinsky of Claremont, took second place prize of $1,000 while Mizuno earned $500 for third place. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mizuno of Upland.

Hudson, 18, held a 4.0 grade point average while attending Damien. An honor roll student for three years, he is a life member of the California Scholarship Federation and a member of the National Honor Society. A state scholarship recipient, he will attend the University of Chicago, beginning in September, as a history and English major.

During his senior year, Hudson served as president of the Speech Club, was a member of the two-man team which captured the state debating championship and won the Bank of America award for math and school awards for biology and chemistry.

Krinsky is also a life member of CSF with a 3.95 grade point average. He was in the top one per cent of the 1975 graduating class at Claremont High.

A native of Syracuse, N.Y., he has lived in California since the age of two and attended Claremont High for three years. During his sophomore year, he was a member of the educational committee. He has been a youth commissioner for the City of Claremont for the past two years.

Krinsky will enter Pomona College in September as a government major.

Mizuno served as valedictorian of the 1975

Upland High graduates and held a 4.0 grade average for his life membership in the CSF. During his sophomore year, he served as class treasurer and was Chess Club president and band treasurer as a junior. A drummer, he was a two-time member of the Honor Band for San Bernardino County.

During the summer of 1974, the 17-year-old Mizuno was a delegate in the United Nations' Pilgrimage for Youth. He served as student body vice president and Key Club treasurer in his senior year.

He has gained distinction as a National Merit Scholarship semifinalist, a Betty Crocker Homemaker of America winner and recipient of the Outstanding High School Award in chemistry from UC Riverside. He was listed in Who's Who in American High Schools.

Mizuno has been accepted to Stanford University. He will major in engineering, beginning in September.

New Cain novel a disappointment

By PHIL THOMAS
RAINBOW'S END. By James M. Cain. Mason & Lipscomb. $7.95.

James M. Cain's fans, and they are many, probably are going to be disappointed with "Rainbow's End."

The latest effort by the crack novelist who produced such fondly remembered bell-ringers as "Mildred Pierce" and "The Postman Always Rings Twice" just doesn't have the narrative power and drive that enabled those earlier books to captivate readers and made it difficult to put the books down until finished. It's easy to put down "Rainbow's End."

The plot, at first, is interesting. Dave Howell, a young Ohio farmer and gas station worker, lives with his "mother" in a fairly isolated area near the West Virginia border. Their life is a fairly uneventful one until the night a hijacker parachutes out of a passenger plane — along with $100,000 ransom and an unwilling stewardess — and lands on Dave's property.

In order to rescue the stewardess, Dave has to kill the hijacker and in the short time between this and the arrival of the police the money disappears. At first it seems as if the "mother" may have taken it, but this fizzles out when she turns up dead.

The rest of the book is devoted to finding the money and the person who took it.

What makes this modestly interesting plot drag, however, is Cain's introduction of an unlikely and poorly written love affair between Dave and the stewardess — a beautiful but thoroughly dislikable woman — and the surprise introduction of Dave's real mother — also a lovely but not very likable woman. As for Dave, he's not very captivating either. He spends entirely too much time going on about his "mountain" origins and is completely out of character in his love scenes with the girl.

A compulsion to serve

The Jews in American political history

By Murray Projector

JEWES AND AMERICAN POLITICS. By Stephen D. Isaacs. Doubleday & Co. $8.95.

"We're all familiar, intellectually and even emotionally, with what three hundred years of slavery have done to the black soul and spirit. Then think of what two thousand years of being murdered for the simple crime of being Jewish have done to the Jews."

The author believes that Jewish participation in American politics is inexplicable without an awareness of Jewish history, which for this purpose means the history of anti-semitism.

The Jews are more active and interested in politics than are their fellow Americans. They vote out of proportion to their numbers, their financial contributions to candidates and causes are generous and they are over-represented among campaign workers.

Isaacs ascribes this political hyperactivity to fear and insecurity. Helplessness about their fate has given way in America to political participation in an effort to influence that fate. They understand that anti-semitism is like diabetes and inflation; an ailment that may be controlled but never cured.

Not that Jewish political efforts produced proportionate political power. They have been welcomed in secondary, non-elective positions, to do the chores for non-Jewish candidates. For the Jews, there was "room near the top."

The low profile was sometimes by choice, sometimes imposed from above. Running for office was frowned upon. Friends, enemies, and most of the Jews themselves were reluctant to be out front.

Isaacs claims the Jewish acceptance of a secondary profile role is not what it used to be. Not that Jewish political opinion was ever monolithic.

The diversity of such opinion was well illustrated in the 1972 presidential election. The author reports that the big Jewish contributors were for Nixon, yet he received only one-third of Jewish votes.

The author explains in great detail how the Nixonites wooed and won over many of the traditional big Jewish money givers. They had a weaker case, but they sold it. They understood better than the McGovernites the Jewish psyches; they knew how to exploit their insecurity.

"Jews and American Politics" is outdated, yet timely. The influence of oil embargoes and oil ownership on moral judgments of the Israel-Arab nations crises followed its publication, yet verify its analysis. Such influence leads to the conclusion that since we need the oil of the Arab states then the Israelis must be at fault.

It is this lethal syllogism that explains the violent reaction to the remarks by an American general about "unbelievable" Jewish influence on American foreign policy, newspapers, and banks. Jews fear, that this was the opening public statement in preparing America for the new logic.

Isaacs says Jews were underrepresented in Congress. Since November, 1974, however, they have brought their representation in Congress up to their national ratio, as he predicted. They are now running for office; room near the top is not sufficient.

Minorities are seldom understood by majorities. With Isaacs' help we can understand the Jews. If we understand the Jews we understand all minorities, including ourselves.

Indochina aftermath is background theme

By R. E. MORSBERGER
THE LAOTIAN FRAGMENTS by John Clark Pratt. Viking. $7.95.

In the aftermath of the (Robert E. Morsberger is professor of English at Cal Poly Pomona.)

sudden and agonizing fall of Cambodia and Vietnam, this novel deserves much attention. It deals with the war in Southeast Asia in a unique and effective manner.

A former Air Force officer who served on active duty in Laos, as well as a Ph.D. in literature who taught at the Air Force Academy and is now chairman of the Department of English at Colorado State University, Pratt presents the professional soldier's point of view with remarkable literary skill.

The fragments of the title are the papers of Major William Blake, who served as a "civilian" forward air controller for the "Company" (alias the CIA). They consist of correspondence, teletype messages, intelligence reports, journal entries, excerpts from books on foreign policy, newspaper clippings, an article from Time (sarcastically annotated), Senate hearings, military memos, official government studies, and transcripts of Major Blake's private tapes.

Pratt organizes these to provide an ironic narrative in a documentary manner so realistic that the Pentagon thought the fiction consisted of classified documents, tried to suppress the book, and kept the author for some months from having access to his own manuscript. No one in Laos or Washington, from enlisted men through the top brass, fully knows what is going on. The mass of unreal paper that makes up the "Fragments" is a labyrinth, a verbal smoke screen behind which corpses, burned villages, broken lives are hidden.

Blake's own ending is especially evocative of the frustration, confusion, and sense of loss which many Americans felt about the war.

Navajos called him 'God's dog'

By JUNE DUGAN
"GOD'S DOG," by Hope Ryden. Coward, McCann and Geoghegan. $12.50.

Hope Ryden is to the coyote what Jane Goodall is to the chimpanzee. She is a naturalist-photographer-writer who has devoted several years to the study of the intriguing coyote, which the Navajos called God's dog.

Miss Ryden was lured to the West in her initial search for the coyote on the basis of complaints by western wool growers.

She found the coyote more sinned against than sinning. He was scarce in relation to the number of complaints about him. She moved on to Yellowstone National Park where she spent two winters following, studying and photographing the coyote.

Among her observations:

"People make a big mistake thinking they can dominate a coyote like a dog. Coyotes regard themselves as no less important than people. They'll try hard to get along with you but only as long as you treat them as equals."

"It became clear that a hungry coyote relishes anything (including extremely putrid meat) as long as it does not reek of a trap."

"I had many opportunities to watch interaction of high-ranking and low-ranking animals vying for choice positions at carcasses. In general, smaller animals gave way to larger ones, females surrendered choice parts to males but continued to feed alongside them and low-ranking yearlings stayed at a distance until mature animals had fed and left."

Miss Ryden presents a strong case for the coyote she was a witness for him at government hearings on what to do to help sheep and wool ranchers who consider the coyote a predator. But it is man who is the predator, she contends.

The book in general is a beautiful piece of work and is lavishly illustrated with black-and-white and color photographs. But the tender-hearted would be well-advised to avoid Chapter 23 and its grisly pictures.

Miss Ryden is also author of "America's Last Wild Horses, Mustangs," "A Return to the Wild" and "The Wild Colt."

BeeGees celebrate anniversary

By STEPHEN FORD
NEW YORK — (NEA) —

Their music is heard in the most varied of mediums, from suburban discotheque to the dance floor at the Waldorf. It is blasted at you from FM rock radio stations and lulls you in the dentist's waiting room, strained through a syrupy network of strings and brass. There are few bands these days whose appeal cuts across so many diverse musical tastes but then, there are few bands like the BeeGees.

This year, the Brothers Gibb celebrate their 20th anniversary in the business. In 1955, Maurice, Robin and Barry took the stage for the first time to sing before a cinema audience in Manchester, England, their birthplace. Since then, their career has yielded their own television show, 15 albums and appearances on stages not only throughout Britain but all over the world.

"Touring is probably the most satisfying aspect of this business," explains 28-year-old Barry from behind the reddish-brown forest of his beard. "It's where we can see our fans' reaction right there as we're performing which, of course, we can't do when in the recording studio."

"We're all fond of

BEEGEES . . . After 20 years, still changing touring," adds Robin, the lead vocalist whose eerie, multi-octave voice has lifted more than one of their songs from the mediocre to the sublime. "But it is a drag living out of a suitcase for three months and moving from hotel to hotel."

Brother Maurice chimes in, "A lot of fans think touring in a band is really exciting — seeing the world, with someone to cater to your every fancy, exotic food and walking up whenever you please. I wish that's all it were. But we do it and love it. You can't just record and never see your fans, you've got to present a physical image, something they come and see or you're containing yourself as an artist."

Especially striking are the brothers' remarkable dispositions. Robin, thin almost to the point of frailty, appears aloof much of the time, a direct contrast to Maurice, his ebullient fraternal twin. Maurice, whose forehead melts into a thinning hairline, is the entertainer, his face twisting every-which-way in some impromptu impression. Barry, three years older than his siblings, is the diplomat with charm to spare. All three are married though Maurice is in the midst of a divorce.

Despite the rich imagery of their lyrics which has led some to believe the BeeGees are a "drug band", a little pot now and then seems to be the extent of their vices. Also along those lines, one need not be a prude to find it refreshing to talk with a band able to communicate without relying on an assortment of vulgarisms.

Currently touring the United States and Canada with an exhaustive 35-concert itinerary before them, the BeeGees will mostly perform material from their latest album "Main Course" on the Atlantic label.

It is an album unlike any other they've recorded. Sounding more like a Motown group than the creators of such classics as "First of May" or "I Started a Joke", the BeeGees newest LP is an amalgam of energetic pop as suitable for disco airplay as for listening in the sanctum of your living room.

"It's our favorite album so far," says Barry. "And you can expect a lot more like it from us. We're experimenting with new sounds and directions and we like the rhythm and blues style."

"This is our first tour of the States without an orchestra accompanying us," Maurice adds. "It may surprise a lot of fans."

"And win new ones," interjects Robin. "We're pleased to notice that our audiences are not just the over-18 crowd who grew up with us but a lot of younger fans who get into us as much as they do Elton John."

But the three hold a very dismal view of pop music today, particularly pop in the British Isles. "Bloody dreadful," says Maurice. "No imagination, mainly gimmicks and glitter."

"Not that we're against glitter," explains Barry. "Some artists need glitter just to be noticed and then prove themselves capable performers. David Bowie is an example. But most of the Top 40 stuff in England is rubbish."

On a more cerebral level, if any group is qualified to produce a concept album, that is, an album with a single theme, they are. Yet they never have. "We like to think each of our songs is a concept piece in itself," states Robin.

"Our philosophy is embodied in our music," Barry says. "We don't advertise our opinions but let the music speak for itself. We tried a political song for Main Course called 'Dear Dr. Kissinger' but it was dropped. It was too forced, sounded like we were trying too hard to be political. That's worse than saying nothing."

After 20 years in show biz, how much longer can the BeeGames continue without their popularity waning as the years wax? "Well," answers Maurice with just the slightest grin, "Look at the Mills Brothers."

Anchovy catch down

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — There has been a marked drop in landings of California's commercial anchovy.

In past seasons the fishermen had to obtain permission from the Fish and Game Commission to take anchovy in February. But because of low takes the past two years the fishermen were granted permission to go after anchovy during May. Much of the blame for the lower tonnage this year was attributed to unusually high winds and rough seas which have kept the purse seiners in port.

Pampered stars

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Money and fame do odd things to rock's working class heroes. Once satisfied with a habitable dressing room and a few cans of cold beer, today, many artists' demands for exotic accommodations when touring have become legend. For example, a former road manager for Three Dog Night said they once refused to perform unless their dressing room was painted canary yellow. Cat Stevens insists on authentically-prepared Indian cuisine plus a sizable liquor supply upon his arrival. Promoters say this usually totals about $1800 per show. Renaissance expects 10,000 tulip petals dropped from above the stage during their encore and Bob Dylan won't consider a gig unless his dressing room includes a ping-pong table. The Allman Brothers hold out until they receive 40 cases of Budweiser and the Rolling Stones?
